Vice Scattered Over City Dean John Atkinson Tells Great Audience at Grand

REFORMS IN CLUBS STRONGLY URGED BY DR. CHAPMAN

Evangelist Declares Every Such Institution Should Be Compelled to Obey Law in Its Strictest Letter.

PUT END TO NEAR BEER, HE URGES LEGISLATORS

Advises Every Christian to See His Club Obeys Law, and if Not, Says He Should Leave Church or Club.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, of the Alexander-Chapman revival, Sunday afternoon at a meeting for men only, diagnosed Atlanta's case as "the serious complications which are so plainly manifested because of the attitude of so many men toward the liquor question."

He declared that after a study of conditions in Atlanta he is forced to the conclusion that "conditions in Atlanta are serious, indeed."

As a remedy he suggested three lines of treatment, as follows:

Here Is His Remedy.

First, every club of every sort in Atlanta should be compelled to obey the law in its strictest letter.

Second, an appeal should be made to the legislature to repeal every law which permits the sale of near beer.

Third, every Christian man who is a member of a club should use his influence to see that his club obeys the law, and, failing in this point, such a member should resign either from the club or his church.

A continuation of present conditions Dr. Chapman expects to have the following results:

First, the city will be injured.

Second, the churches will be affected, the present conditions acting as a barrier to the extension of church work.

Third, the homes will be affected.

Praise for Beavers.

Besides giving his answer to the question, What is the matter with Atlanta? Dr. Chapman talked earnestly and unsensationally upon the danger of secret sins among men. His text was, "Be sure your sin will find you out."

The tabernacle was crowded with five or six thousand men, who broke into an enthusiastic and prolonged demonstration when Dr. Chapman praised Chief of Police Beavers and invited him to take a seat upon the platform, "where people could look at him." Chief Beavers' aged father sat with him on the platform.

Dr. Chapman declared that he knows a man when he sees one, and that Chief Beavers measures up to his conception of such. When he asked all who would support Chief Beavers to say "Yes," a tremendous shout went up from the thousands gathered together.

Dr. Chapman's Sermon.

Dr. Chapman read his answer to the question, "What is the matter with Atlanta?" His answer is as follows:

"When I ask 'What's the matter with Atlanta?' I am forced to answer that the difficulty with your city is the same difficulty which is facer by other cities, namely, sin and nothing less. Cities are just like individuals, and they need a Savior quite as much, but I am forced to the conclusion that the conditions in Atlanta are serious indeed. I have reached this conclusion without conference with other men. I am not speaking for the Men and Religion Movement, although the men of that committee are my personal friends, and I indorse their work and the motives prompting it. I have avoided conference with this committee lest the people in Atlanta should say that I was their mouthpiece and therefore prejudiced. I am not speaking for the chief of police, although I am forced to say that any city in the country might be proud to have such a chief as the one who is at the head of your police department. I know men when I see them, and I have no hesitation in saying that I believe Chief Beavers to be every inch a man and desirous only of doing the best for the city of Atlanta, and he ought to be supported by every man who loves his city, his church and his home.

"I am persuaded that the difficulty with Atlanta today lies in the serious complications which are so plainly manifested because of the attitude of so many men towards the liquor question, some of them no doubt thoughtlessly.

Must Obey the Laws.

"I have a word to say about the so-called clubs of the city. When I say 'so-called clubs,' I am aware that certain well-established clubs in the city, of which the Capital City club may be taken as in every way

The Month of Housewares

It has become a trade custom to make March a month for pushing the sales of housewares, china, and kindred articles.

Prices are lessened and volumes of sales increased.

It is one of the many trade events made possible by careful merchandising and well-directed Constitution advertising.

It is a trade custom profitable all around, benefiting manufacturer, merchant and consumer.

Wise housewives will read the advertising in The Constitution very closely at this season of the year.

It is a directory of profitable opportunities.

"It Is in Our Hotels, on Our Residential Streets, Maybe Next Door to Us," He Declares in Arraigning Men and Religion and Chapman Revival.

HE URGES CITIZENS NOT TO BE COWARDS IN THE AWAKENING

Suggsets That Peachtree Revival Building Be Transformed Into a Municipal Theater as Soon as Meetings Are Over — Scores Bulletins.

In the midst of an unparalleled arraignment of the Chapman-Alexander revival and of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, Dean John R. Atkinson was interrupted in his sermon at the Grand theater last night by a wave of applause that swept over an audience that packed the huge building to capacity.

The outbreak drowned the voice of the speaker. It was cut short by a severe rebuke from Dr. Atkinson, who called his hearers to task for giving way to their emotions. In terse, scathing phrases he deplored the ovation, pleading with the audience to give him conscientious reflection instead of emotional demonstrations.

ASKS FOR AID.

He upbraided Atlanta for tolerating the tactics of both the Men and Religion organization and Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman. A direct appeal was made for supporters to uphold him in his attitude toward the organizations that came under his criticism, adjuring them "not to be cowards in the awakening, but to come forward bravely and say: 'We don't need these things.'

"Don't let one man stand alone," he exclaimed. "Don't leave it all to a stranger."

In course of his arraignment he dwelt upon the vice situation in Atlanta, quoting at length from a volume on the social evil published by Albert W. Elliott, to the effect that vice was not suppressed, but scattered, and that conditions were in a more deplorable state than before.

"Vice in Atlanta is scattered," the dean declared on his own initiative. "Instead of being concentrated, it has been spread over the town where the clean and pure girl is liable to contamination. It is in our hotels, on our residential streets—maybe next door to us. The social evil is our most perplexing problem. Here it is not suppressed; no one has been saved—it is only scattered.

WOMEN'S AID NECESSARY.

"We ministers should lend helping hands. We should take our good women and lend aid to the needy. It is a time for the women. Men have tried, but the women can do more. The men who spend their time making words and writings about the impurity of the city and politics should get out and lend their efforts instead."

Dr. Atkinson's remarkable sermon was divided into three parts—a preface, arraignment and sermon. Each part was separated by a hymn and music. In his prologue, he explained his presence in the Grand, outlined his attitude toward the religious organizations he later took to task, and deplored the fact that the task was left to him.

"Take a larger view of life and religion," he urged. "Why not say to your spiritual guides: 'Appeal to my conscience and my manliness—don't cow me?' Some one must say these things—some one must protest. I don't like the burden that has been forced upon me—no minister would relish it. But, somehow, by someone, these things must be said. The Jew or the Catholic would be accused of prejudice if either undertook to say them, therefore it is up to an evangelical minister to say in public what thousands are saying in private."

QUOTES CHAPMAN.

It was at this point in his prologue that Dr. Atkinson picked from his table a small, red-bound booklet, and, after some difficulty, located a marked passage.

"'A man makes a great mistake when he thinks he must preach one kind of a sermon to laboring men and another kind to rich men,'" he quoted. "He makes a fatal mistake when he is afraid of rich men. Whenever a man becomes afraid of anybody in the pulpit he had better step out until he gets his backbone stiffened up a little bit. The last place for fear is the pulpit. A minister must be brave, or he has lost his battle before he starts.'"

Dr. Atkinson held the book aloft, saying to his audience.

"This is a book I would have you all read. It is written by a sterling minister, the Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman."

A startling phase of the dean's sermon was his suggestion to turn the Chapman-Alexander tabernacle into a municipal theater as soon as the revival meetings come to an end. He urged this in behalf of the working girls and women, who, he maintained, devoted so much of their lives to their exacting labors that they seldom inclined to religion or social activity.

In this regard, he called upon the men and women of Atlanta to "turn formers instead of reformers; to lend their efforts to forming character before it had been bathed in iniquity, instead of seeking only to rescue it after its searing bath."

REVIVAL METHODS.

Criticising the Chapman-Alexander methods, he said:

"I don't like the revival method of bringing hysterical men straggling down the aisle to a hysterical conversion. I prefer only the manly religion."

He put emphasis upon the declara-

Atlanta Always Ahead!

FAMINE AND RIOT ARE BEING FACED BY MEXICO CITY

High Officials at Washington Admit the Situation Is Very Serious, But Not Entirely Hopeless.

Washington, March 7.—Dispatches from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City received tonight indicated that conditions in the capital are unchanged, that the populace still fears the effects of the famine and dangers of possible rioting should General Obregon's forces evacuate.

High officials of the American government described the situation as serious, but not hopeless. No word came from Vera Cruz as to General Carranza's attitude, but further representations have been made of such an urgent character that officials here confidently expect Carranza to take steps to improve conditions.

Two communications have been sent to American Consul Silliman at Vera Crub for presentation to Carranza and both are phrased in strong terms, pointing out the serious consequences that might ensue if foreigners were injured in any rioting in the capital or if they were unable to get food and supplies. There have been indications in the last 24 hours that General Carranza might instruct General Obregon to permit the international relief committee to take charge of the situation, giving them transportation facilities to bring supplies into the city.

Carranza and Obregon at Odds.

An element of much danger has arisen, however, in the rumored friction between Obregon and Carranga. It is known that Obregon was irritated when Carranza revoked the tax levied by Obregon on foreigners recently and since that time, official dispatches say, anti-foreign sentiment has been fostered, if not inspired, by Obregon himself.

A possibility that General Villa might change his military campaign temporarily from its northward direction and turn his entire attention to recapturing Mexico City was looked on in some official quarters as a possible solution of the situation, since such a move, if successful, would give uninterrupted passage for supplies from the American border by rail.

President Wilson discussed the situation today with Secretary Bryan.

Until some definite idea is obtained of Carranza's attitude toward the representations sent by the United States and the extent of his control over Obregon is defined, it is unlikely that any further steps will be taken by the Washington government for the present.

Talk of Allied Intervention.

Diplomats continue to talk of some form of allied intervention such as occurred in China during the Boxer uprising. While united action by the United States with any European countries is not believed possible, suggestions that some of the Pan-American nations, together with the United States, should undertake a relief expedition are discussed in diplomatic circles especially. Mr. R. E. O'Donnelly And Miss Sullivan Marry in New York

Prominent Merchant and His Bride Left Sunday for Atlantic City to Spend Their Honeymoon There.

Ten days ago R. E. O'Donnelly, manager of Keely company, and Miss Mamie Sullivan, head of the suit department, left Atlanta for New York on their annual spring purchasing trip for this big department store.

Saturday messages received in Atlanta from Mr. O'Donnelly announced that the spring purchases had been completed. Sunday relatives here were informed in telegrams that Mr. O'Donnelly and Miss Sullivan had been married in New York, and had left that city for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon.

No marriage announcement, in which Atlanta people have a part, could center a greater interest. Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnelly have hosts of friends and admirers in Atlanta and every section of the state who will extend them congratulations.

Mr. O'Donnelly has been connected with Keely company, of which he is one of the owners, for some forty years. He is one of the nestors of the dry goods business and one of the best liked men in the city. For years he has been a leader in commercial life and has ever been foremost in all civic projects, giving his best efforts to the upbuilding of Atlanta.

Mrs. O'Donnelly, as Miss Sullivan, was one of the most valued and efficient department heads of Keely company. She is a charming woman, popular and highly esteemed for her personal qualities, as well as for her business ability. During her connection with Keely's she won the love of a wide circle of acquaintances, who will learn with interest of her marriage.

SEASON TICKET SALE FOR OPERA SEASON WILL START TODAY

Season tickets for grand opera will go on sale to the general public this morning at 9 o'clock at the stores of the Cable company, on Broad street, and Phillips & Crew, on Pryor street.

Although this sale will last through March 27, it is probable that by the middle of this week the best seats will be pretty well thinned out by the selections of those who are first on hand to buy, as has always been the case in the past.

Mail orders for season tickets for out-of-town patrons will also be receivable today. C. B. Bidwell, treasurer of the Atlanta Music Festival association, 1120 Fourth National Bank building, will have charge of the mail order sales. All mail orders must be accompanied by check or with exchange, draft, postoffice or express order and self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Such applications will be filled strictly in the order of their receipt and the seats will be delivered as nearly as possible to the location requested.

PENNILESS, BURROUGHS TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

Detroit, Mich., March 7.—Horace S. Burroughs, 29 years of age, son of the late William S. Burroughs, wealthy inventor of an adding machine, died in a hospital here today from a self-inflicted wound. He was penniless and in frail health, friends said. Several years ago, according to former associates, the young man was worth more than $.50,000.

GLOOM OF TRAGEDY WRAPS BRUNSWICK: SEVENTH VICTIM DIES

Ernest McDonald, Popular Young Packer, Dies—Believed Gunner Tolnas and Others Will Recover.

Brunswick, Ga., March 7.—(Special.) Shrouded in gloom, Brunswick realized this morning the awful extent of yesterday's frightful tragedy in which seven human lives were snuffed out in as many minutes.

Terror-stricken and under great excitement, the awfulness of the horrible affair did not dawn upon the people of this city until today, when hearses, winding their way through public streets and avenues, carried to their last resting places those of Brunswick's dead who lost their lives only a few hours before.

Ernest McDonald Dies.

In twenty-five other homes there suffer victims of the ruthless bullets, and in the city hospital one other death occurred this morning, that of Ernest McDonald, 25 years of age, well known and popular. McDonald was an innocent bystander. He had emerged from a barber shop, happy because only recently he had been spared from a serious attack of pneumonia, in which he put up a brave fight, lingered between life and death for weeks, finally emerged a victor, only to lay down his life at the crack of Monroe Phillips' gun. There was hope during the early hours of the morning that McDonald might rally and all that physicians and nurses could do was done, to save him, but all in vain, and shortly before 11 o'clock this morning he passed away, leaving a young widow and two children, a boy and girl.

Another patient at the city hospital, Gunner Tolnas, the 21-year-old bank collector, who was shot while riding his bicycle, is still lingering and tonight physicians announced that there appeared to be a little improvement and some hope is now entertained for his recovery.

L. J. Levy Is Better.

L. J. Levy, Sr., the aged confederate veteran who received one ugly wound just under the shoulder and another in the chest, was reported to be resting easy. Unless complications set in he will recover.

Sigmund Levison, another of the seriously injured, shows improvement.

A. H. Boyle, a member of city council, received a bad wound in the chest. He jumped into an auto immediately after he was shot and went to his home. It was hours afterwards before it was known that Mr. Boyle had even been wounded. His condition is not considered serious.

All of the other twenty or more people who were more or less injured were reported to be improving today.

The body of young Officer Deaver was interred this afternoon at his old home at Frederick.

William A. Hackett, the aged undertaker, was buried in Oak Grove cemetery at 3 o'clock and his funeral was attended by the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows and the American Mechanics. He was a charter member of Rathbone lodge, K. of P., and as a tribute of respect to him no hearse was used, but members of this lodge car-

Greece at Cross Roads; Will She Go Peace Route Or Travel War Highway?

Premier Venizelos and His Cabinet Resign Because King Constantine Objects to Policy of Venizelos in Regard to Intervention.

SENTIMENT IN GREECE VERY STRONG FOR WAR

Venizelos Thinks Policy of Non-Intervention Will Work Irreparable Harm to Greece — Bombardment of the Dardanelles Causes Agitation in All the Balkan States.

London, March 7.—Greece apparently is at the parting of the ways, with her king exerting his influence to maintain the country's neutrality in opposition to Eleutherios Venizelos, the retiring premier, and the man to whom Greece owes her revival.

M. Venizelos yesterday announced the resignation of himself and his cabinet, as King Constantine did not approve the policy of the government. Today in the chamber of deputies he clearly indicated that differences between him and the monarch were over the question of peace and war. He said he had advised the king to select as a new premier M. Zaimis, governor of the national bank, who, he said, "will follow a policy of neutrality which I hope will not endanger our newly acquired territory."

A grand council of ministers was held at Athens today under the presidency of King Constantine, and as Venizelos was leaving the palace at its conclusion he was acclaimed by the populace.

VENIZELOS POPULAR WITH THE GREEKS.

King Constantine won great popularity by the successful manner in which he led the last two Balkan wars. This popularity, however, he shared with M. Venizelos, to whose diplomacy in the conferences following the war Greece is said to owe her success, and whose organization is largely responsible for her ability to fight as she did. The retiring premier also was the moving spirit in the Balkan alliance which united the Balkan states against Turkey. While this political dispute is going on in the Greek capital, the allied fleet continues bombarding the forts of the Dardanelles, forcing of which will make great changes in the near east—changes which it is considered none of the Balkan states, and least of all Greece, can afford to treat slightingly.

Having damaged two forts on the European side of the narrows previously, the British battleship Queen Elizabeth and others of the allied warships Saturday started a bombardment by indirect fire on the forts on the Asiatic side of the narrows. These forts are offering stubborn resistance. In addition, the Turkish army, with modern German guns, is concentrating on the Gallipoli peninsula to oppose any landing and until it is disposed of, naval experts declare the ships will not be safe in the straits.

Bulgaria is said to have been aroused by the attack on the Dardanelles and is looking to the future. It is stated that King Ferdinand is considering a coalition government to direct the affairs of the country through the crisis which is expected.

VENIZELOS WANTS TO AID ALLIES.

Athens, March 8.—(Via London, 2:34 a. m.)—The Journal Patris, which is regarded as a Venizelos organ, gives the following account of the crisis in Greece:

"During the second sitting of the crown council, Premier Venizelos proposed that only one division of troops should be sent to aid the allies against the Dardanelles, thus overcoming objections raised previously by the military staff, that on military grounds it was not in the country's intent to join the allies.

M. Venizelos then pointed out the danger to which Greece was exposed by the threatening descent of the Austro-German forces on the Balkans, adding that since no guarantee had been offered by Austria or Germany that they would respect Greek interests, Greece was obliged to join the allies, who had given such a promise. He said he was convinced that on the allies winning, not only were the present possessions of Greece guaranteed, but further advantage to her interests would accrue. To this M. Theotokis (former premier and minister of war) answered:

"'I formerly advocated a pro-German policy, but now recognize that that policy seems obsolete and against public opinion.'

"M. Rhallis (a former premier) then addressed the king as follows:

"'Your majesty knows well that I am an opponent of M. Venizelos. On this

LOVER ARRESTED, YOUNG GIRL GOES TO JAIL WITH HIM

Pretty Blond Tells Police They Will Have to Lock Her Up if They Put Sweetheart Behind the Bars.

REFUSES PARENTS' PLEA TO RETURN TO HER HOME

Harry Mandell Arrested on Request of Members of the Family of Miss Gottlieb in Effort to End Romance.

Avowing her love to be fathomless, and quoting that beautiful passage of Scripture from Ruth that ends with the words, "until death do us part," Miss Mollie Gottlieb, a striking young blonde, with big, brown eyes, rather than be separated from her sweetheart insisted that she be locked behind prison bars at police station, Sunday afternoon.

All night long from her prison cell she called to her sweetheart, Harry Mandell, a youthful electrician from New York city, who was arrested at the instigation of members of her family, who wished Miss Gottlieb and Mandell to sever their romance. Encouraging messages passed between the youthful lovers.

Mandell was arrested at Miss Gottlieb's home, 246 East Fair street, when he paid a call on her Sunday afternoon. The young girl put on her hat, and, when the police patrol came for "Handsome Harry," as she calls him, she entered the patrol despite the efforts of members of her family and the officers to keep her from accompanying Mandell to police barracks.

Harry Mandel came to Atlanta about three months ago from New York city, and soon after his arrival met Miss Gottlieb, and there sprang up between them, according to their story, a warm love. Family objections arose, and of late it has been very hard for the two lovers to see each other.

"I am the only friend he has," she told the police station sergeant, when the patrol arrived at headquarters, "and I am going to stand by him. If you lock him up you will have to take me, too."

As she said these words, to show that she was in earnest, she tiptoed up to Mandell, and, raising her pretty lips to his, kissed him before all the police officers, her uncle, Aaron Rosenblot, and the other members of her family that were present.

Girl Wins Her Point.

"But we have no charges against you," remonstrated the police sergeant, "and we cannot put you in prison."

"But," she replied, "you are putting Harry in prison, and you have no charges against him, either."

Seeing that she was determined the station sergeant took her name, and wrote it upon the sleepers' blotter. She was sent to Matron Bohnefeld's ward, and Harry was locked in a cell at the foot of the long stairway leading to the woman's ward.

Her uncle gave her money to leave her sweetheart and come home, but she turned to a messenger, tossing him the silver with instructions to bring Harry some cigarettes.

"I will give you handsome clothes, $50 and a trip to Florida, if you will come home," promised her uncle.

"Do you think you can bribe my love?" she hotly replied, her face flushing with anger. "A million dollars could not persuade me to leave Harry alone."

Burning Love Notes.

Burning love notes, scribbled on dainty engraved visiting cards and envelopes, were passed back and forth between the two lovers, one of which read as follows:

"Darling Harry: Don't worry. I am on the steps. I am positive everything will be all right tomorrow. Anyway, Dear, I will stick by you 'until death do us part.' Uncle gave me a note, pretending it was from you. It asked me to go home from here, but they couldn't fool me, because I know you want me near you.

"I am willing to go to jail for you. You are innocent of anything wrong, and I don't believe any of those ugly things they said about you. I have loved you, and forever shall.

"Cold bars of steel may separate a love of warmth awhile, but things will be better tomorrow. My uncle has offered me all kinds of inducements for us to part, but 'nothing doing.' MOLLIE."

Mandell swears everlasting devotion to his new-found love.

Say He Is Married.

Late last night members of the family engaged Leonard J. Grossman to represent them. Mr. Grossman informed The Constitution that the family had every reason to believe Mandel was married and that this was the reason a case of disorderly conduct had been made. Bond, he said, had been raised from $25 to $200.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

Albion, N. Y., March 7.—Four persons were killed and two injured in a collision late today between an automobile and an interurban baggage car at Knowlesville, near here. The dead are: Mildred Skinner, 18; Helen Skinner, 12; Herschell Harding, 10; Marion Harding, 14. The Skinners and Hardings live on adjoining farms and were returning from church when the collision occurred.

Alabama—Fair Monday; Tuesday fair, slightly warmer.

Mississippi—Fair Monday; Tuesday increasing cloudiness and warmer.

occasion, however I am fully of his opinion and heartily congratulate him on the policy he wishes the country to pursue."

"M. Venizelos further stated his belief that Bulgaria was ready to join the allies in an attack on Constantinople. The king, nevertheless, announced that, taking into consideration the present international position, he considered it not in the country's interest to abandon neutrality. Therefore, he accepted the cabinet's resignation."

VENIZELOS TO OPPOSE NEW GOVERNMENT.

London, March 7.—A Reuter dispatch from Athens says that M. Venizelos, speaking in the chamber of deputies today, declared he had advised King Constantine to send for M. Zaimis to form a new cabinet. "M. Zaimis," the retiring minister added, "will follow the policy of neutrality, and I hope this policy will not endanger our newly acquired territory."

"Our party," M. Venizelos continues, "will refuse to support any government which may be formed. Besides, M. Zaimis, if he forms a cabinet, will not come before the chamber."

"M. Venizelos told his supporters that the injury caused by the failure to adopt his policy was irreparable," says The Times' Athens correspondent. "He advised them, however, to submit to the king's decision.

"Should M. Zaimis accept the office of premier the chamber probably will be adjourned or dissolved. Otherwise, his cabinet would be overthrown."

The Exchange Telegraph's Athens correspondent says that Athens university students made a demonstration today in favor of immediate action by Greece. The students visited and cheered the legations of the Triple Entente powers.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens says the Greek press is in favor of Greece's taking part in the war, taking the ground that no breaking up of the Ottoman empire should be permitted without the participation of Hellenic troops.

TEUTONS AND TURKS THREATEN GREECE.

Paris, March 7.—A Havas dispatch from Athens says:

"King Constantine has accepted the resignation of Premier Venizelos and his cabinet and has requested M. Zaimis, governor of the National bank, to form a ministry. M. Zaimis asked the king to give him until tomorrow to consult with his friends.

"The Turkish minister, Salih Bey, has declared openly that massacres would take place in Turkey if Greece broke with the porte, while Count Mirbach, the German minister, informed the diplomatic corps that Austria and Germany immediately would declare war on Greece, the day that Greece moved against Turkey."

Under date of Saturday the correspondent, announcing the resignation of the cabinet of Premier Venizelos, which he blames on the king's disapproval of the government's policy regarding intervention, gave the following details:

"Premier Venizelos went to the palace at 2:30 o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon and remained with the king for more than an hour. The chief of the army staff and the principal officers also were at the palace to give their advice if necessary.

"Returning to his residence the premier notified the ministers of the resolution of the king. The premier then announced the resignation of the cabinet. The news was a surprise in diplomatic circles.

"Yesterday Premier Venizelos told certain foreign ministers he would resign irrevocably if his policy did not receive the approval of the king, who now has called Alexander Zaimis (a former premier) for consultation."

Concerning events prior to the resignation, the correspondent says:

"This morning when the king, accompanied by Premier Venizelos, left the cathedral where a Te Deum on the anniversary of the taking of Janina was celebrated, they both were acclaimed by the crowds. This manifestation was interpreted as indicating the perfect accord of the nation in pursuance of its traditions. The newspaper La Patris in this respect says:

"'The Greek people, who have a real adoration for their king, have no doubt he will safeguard the rights of the nation and will lead them to the way of victory.'"

Salih Bey, the Turkish minister, visited Premier Venizelos this afternoon.

WHAT WILL GREECE DO?

Paris, March 7.—The crisis in Greece is commented on extensively by the principal Paris papers.

"What will Greece do?" is the principal question asked, and there is much speculation as to her probable plans. Some papers declare the crisis exceeds in proportion the mere change in the ministry.

"The Figaro says Greece wants to be admitted into the partition of dying Turkey and has her eyes on Smyrna and the numerous colonies of the Anatolian coast."

GREEK OFFICERS ARE RECALLED.

Geneva, March 7.—(Via Paris.)—All Greek army officers in Switzerland were recalled Saturday. Other Greeks of a military age must report at the offices of the consul general in Geneva before March 11. Many here believe there is to be a general mobilization of the Greek army.

ITALY AND GREECE WATCHFULLY WAIT.

Berlin, March 7.—(Via London.)—Morning papers devote much space to the consideration of future developments in Greece and Italy which, the editorials say, are likely to be determined largely by the course of the Dardanelles operations.

DIFFICULT FOR ITALY TO REMAIN NEUTRAL.

Rome, March 7.—(Via Paris.)—The Giornale d'Italia, which represents the political majority supporting the cabinet, argues that it will be difficult for Italy longer to remain neutral, declaring the attack on the Dardanelles has brought up three great problems affecting Italian interests.

"The first of these problems," the newspaper says, "is the new rule to allow Russia access to the Mediterranean; the second concerns the equilibrium of the Balkans, the third the partition of Asiatic Turkey, which affects the equilibrium of the eastern Mediterranean.

"It is impossible for Italy to keep out of the solution of such problems, unless she is satisfied to see not only the powers of the Triple Entente settle these affairs, according to their interests, but also the small but audacious and resolute nation, Greece."

STATE OF SIEGE LIKELY IN RUMANIA.

London, March 8.—(2:19 a. m.)—A Daily Telegraph dispatch from Bucharest says the Rumanian parliament has passed a law empowering the government to proclaim a state of siege until the end of the war, if such a step should be deemed necessary.

STOLEN GROCERIES AND ALLEGED THIEF ARE UNDER ARREST

Call Officers Austin and Long Saturday announced they would capture the second of two burglars who carried away the larger portion of the stock in the grocery store of H. Hoffman, 208 McDonough road, Saturday morning.

Dave Williams, the first negro caught, "turned up" his pal after being brought to the police station, Saturday. After a vigorous search of several hours, the two officers found a negro early Sunday, giving his name as A. B. Ross, at 158 McDonough road. In his cabin was a large part of the stolen groceries.

Three other reported burglaries occurred Sunday morning. A person in the neighborhood of the Acme Pharmacy, 371 Lee street, was awakened by the crashing of the large front glass. The noise, however, frightened the thieves away. Austin and Long also are working on the trail of thieves who stole candy from the Nelson Street Soda company, 167 Nelson street. Another party broke into the grocery store of B. Stein, 83 Houston street, Sunday morning. Nothing was stolen so far as ascertained.

RAIN OF SHELLS POURED BY FLEET ON DARDANELLES

Allied Warships Continue Bombardment of Gateway to Constantinople — Forts on the Smyrna Coast Also Bombarded--Sultan Trusts Defense of the Capital to Germans.

Paris, March 7.—(Via London.)—The bombardment of the Dardanelles fortifications was continued Saturday, according to an official statement issued tonight. The communication says:

"The British battleship Queen Elizabeth, posted in the Gulf of Saros, bombarded by indirect fire two big works on the Asiatic side alongside of Chanak and defending the straits (Forts Hamidieh and Hamidieh 3 Sultanish).

'At the same time cruisers inside the Dardanelles continued a direct fire against the works at Dardanus, on the Asiatic side, and Souain Dere, on the European side."

NO DAMAGE, TURKS CLAIM.

Constantinople, March 7.—(Via London.)—Bombardment of forts on the Smyrna coast by an allied fleet Saturday was without results, according to an official Turkish communication issued today, which says:

"Two enemy warships bombarded forts on the Symrna coast for three hours yesterday without result.

"As 8 p. m. one French and three British warships, accompanied by five large mine sweepers, again bombarded Smyrna forts for an hour and a half. Seven shells fired by our batteries struck the warship which had been first to open fire. One mine sweeper was sunk.

"Our casualties yesterday and today were four killed and seven wounded.

"The enemy's fleet undertook no serious action against the Dardanelles either yesterday or today."

London, March 8.—(12:57 a. m.)—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent sends the following official communication issued in Constantinople Saturday night:

"This afternoon six hostile warships bombarded our batteries in the Dardanelles. The batteries replied successfully.

"There is no important change in the general situation."

SULTAN TRUSTS TO GERMANS.

London, March 8.—(12:30 a. m.)—"According to the latest advices received here," says Reuter's dispatch from Sofia, "the sultan and the governor still are in Constantinople. The government is prepared to cross to Asia Minor at any moment, but the sultan wants to remain in the capital.

"It is understood it has been decided to entrust the defense of Constantinople exclusively to the Germans under command of General Liman von Sanders, instructor of the Turkish army, while Bedri Bey, the prefect of police, will be invested with the general control of the city with powers equivalent to those of a viceroy.

"Measures of precaution already have been adopted to prevent the city's capture. It is reported that all troops at Adrianople and Demotica have been dispatched hurriedly to the Gallipoli peninsula."

GREAT ALARM IN TURK CAPITAL.

London, March 8.—(2:59 a. m.)—The Daily Mail's Sofia correspondent sends the following dispatch:

"Refugees from Constantinople indicate that the populace there is greatly alarmed at the allied attempt on the Dardanelles and refuses to believe the government's assurances of safety. In Constantinople, which is crowded with refugees from the Marmora coast. The authorities are suspicious of all foreigners and Christians, even Germans being in a precarious position.

"The authorities are seizing all gold in the possession of individuals, firms and banks. There is fear of massacres. The vicinity of Constantinople is being constantly strengthened with trenches and fortifications."

GERMANS FIGHT WITH TURKS.

London, March 8.—(2:53 a. m.)—The Daily Mail's Cairo correspondent says:

"During the Turkish retreat after the recent Suez operations the German officers had an open conflict with their allies and three hundred Turks were killed in a single affray near Jerusalem."

FIRE UNDER CONTROL ON LINER LA TOURAINE

Paris, March 7.—Fire which threatened the French steamship La Touraine has been controlled and all the vessel's passengers are safe on board, according to a formal announcement issued at noon today by the Compagnie Generale Trans-Atlantique, owner of the liner. The fire is confined in one of the compartments of the hold. La Touraine is proceeding to Havre under her own steam, escorted by the steamship Rotterdam, and is expected to arrive there tomorrow night.

The statement given out by the steamship company said:

"The fire which broke out aboard La Touraine was less serious than was at first thought. It is under control and all passengers are safe.

"La Touraine has resumed her voyage to Havre under her own steam, but, nevertheless, for further security she is being escorted by the Rotterdam and probably will arrive at Havre Monday evening."

It was feared for a time that it might be necessary to transfer the passengers to another ship to avoid danger, but this plan evidently was abandoned when it was seen the blaze was being mastered.

Grave fears for the safety of La Touraine were felt in this city until the positive announcement was made that she was in no danger. Several newspapers suggested that the fire might have been started by spies who had concealed themselves on board.

No Immediate Danger.

Havre, March 7.—(Via Paris.)—The agent here of the French line today received the following wireless from Captain Caussin, of La Touraine:

"Sunday, March 7 (3:45 p. m.)—La Touraine having a fire in one of its holds asked for help, but is continuing her journey to Havre, escorted by the steamer Rotterdam. I hope to get control of the fire. There is no immediate danger. The weather is good but foggy.

"I hope to dock Monday evening if everything goes well."

WILL DISCUSS MERGER OF FULTON AND DEKALB

Move Not Result of Financial Condition of DeKalb, Says R. J. Freeman.

The possible merger of Fulton and DeKalb counties into one county will be the chief subject to be discussed at the get-together meeing to be held at the Decatur courthouse Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

This meeting has been called by the Decatur board of trade and has for its purpose the bringing together of the leaders of Decatur and of Kirkwood, now the new fourth ward. An interesting program has been prepared. Among those who will speak are Hooper Alexander, Charles D. McKinney, Raymund Daniel, R. J. Freeman and Mayor Hopkins, of Decatur.

In commenting on the possible merger R. J. Freeman, commissioner of DeKalb county, repudiated the report that this move was a result of the financial condition of the county.

Mr. Freeman said that he favored the merger as a good business proposition, but that he would fight it, if those who also favored it continued to state that the general talk and public sentiment in its behalf had sprung from a dissatisfaction with financial condition of the county. He branded such an attitude as false and prejudicial to himself politically.

"The proposal to merge Fulton and DeKalb counties came up several years ago," he said, "and at that time I favored it. However, so far as this grand jury is concerned they never dreamed of it until I suggested it last week. When the committee appointed to review my records as county commissioner met in the office last Wednesday, I brought up the possibility of a merger between the two counties. P. S. Arkwright, the chairman; W. A. Bond, John Nichols and E. A. Minor were outspoken in their commendation of the idea. The other member of the committee, J. W. Corley, made no statement.

The present excess of the current liabilities of DeKalb county are $69,882.80. This is a condition in nowise different from the county's indebtedness at this time in prior years. In 1912, for instance, the county was indebted about $85,000. By March, 1913, this sum had been entirely wiped out. The same thing will be true in 1916. In bringing this about, as I told the committee of five, I shall curtail many expenses. It is absolutely false, as stated by certain persons hostile to me, that the people of DeKalb county are dissatisfied with the present indebtedness of the county."

FARMER SLAIN WITH AX; TWO NEGROES ARRESTED

John D. Pennington Found With Skull Crushed at His Home Near Irwinton.

Irwinton, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—John D. Pennington, a prominent farmer, was found murdered at his home about eight miles north of here this morning. His skull had been broken over the eyes and at the back of his head. An ax, apparently, had been used upon the farmer, but no blood stained instrument could be found.

Mr. Pennington was alone at his home during the night, his wife being away on a visit to relatives. He was seen at Bloodworth's store, two miles away, at 11 o'clock Saturday night. He left the store and started home. Whether he was followed by robbers or accompanied by someone who killed him has not been determined.

A negro woman in doing the work at the Pennington home discovered the body of the farmer about 7 o'clock. She had gone to the kitchen to prepare breakfast and there stretched on the floor partly under the front of the stove was Pennington's body.

Track dogs were obtained from the state farm at Milledgeville in an effort to train the murderer. Sheriff Parker has arrested two negroes, John Fountain and Adolph Hicks, and has taken them to Macon for safekeeping.

The scene of the killing is not far from the place where Luss Mixon shot and killed young Bloodworth a few days ago. Mixon has not been captured yet.

TURKS WERE DROPPED BY THE BRITISH FIRE

Heavy Losses Inflicted on Sultan's Forces in Fight Near Head of Persian Gulf.

London, March 7.—British troops occupying the head of the Persian gulf located two Turkish forces accompanied by hostile tribesmen last week, and heavy casualties were inflicted on the Turks and their allies, while the British also suffered considerably, according to a report issued tonight by the Marquis of Crewe, secretary of state for India. The statement says:

"For some time it had been known that about two or three regiments of Turkish troops, together with Turkish Beni Fam tribesmen from Amara (on the Tigris river), with contingents of Persian Beni Lamu Tureef and other disaffected tribesmen hostile to the sheik of Mohammerah had been collecting west of Ahwaz (in Khuzistan). The Ahwaz garrison was dispatched on a reconnaissance in force to ascertain their numbers and disposition.

"On March 3 the enemy, who had been located at Ghadir, and who apparently had been further reinforced the previous day, turned out in great strength. Their number was estimated at about 12,000. In the course of our withdrawal the enemy made repeated and determined efforts to cut off reconnoitering parties.

"Several hand-to-hand encounters took place in which the attackers were held successfully at bay while our party made good its retirement. From reports received and supported by the absence of all further activity it appears that the enemy lost no less than from 200 to 300 killed, including brothers of the sheik of the Beni Turee, besides from 500 to 600 wounded. Our casualties were: British officers killed, 5; wounded, 3; British rank and file killed, 1; wounded 5; Indian officers killed, 1; wounded, 4; Indian rank and file killed, 53; wounded, 115.

"On the same date a cavalry reconnaissance was made in the direction of Nakala, about 25 miles northwest of Basra (on the Persian gulf). The reconnoiterers, on returning to camp, were followed by a body of some 1,500 hostile horsemen. This enemy force was skillfully drawn on to a concealed position occupied by infantry, with machine guns and field artillery. The enemy fled back to Nakala after having suffered heavily. Our losses in this reconnaissance were: British officers killed, 4; wounded, 2; Indian officers killed, 2; rank and file killed, 4."

GERMANS LAUNCH ANOTHER DRIVE TO TAKE WARSAW

While Russians Are Pressing Offensive in North Poland and Galicia, Germans Attack Along Pilica River.

London, March 7.—Russia has still another battle on her hands. While she is declared to be pressing her offensive in north Poland and eastern Galicia and holding up the Austrians in the Carpathians, the Germans have launched an attack in the region of the Pilica river, south of Warsaw, where a big battle is developing.

The most important news in the west is that the French have returned to the attack in the Vosges, and, according to Paris, have obtained a footing on some of the hills near Munster and are pushing their lines forward.

GERMANS DRIVEN BY RUSSIANS.

Petrograd, March 7.—(Via London.) The Russian war office tonight made public the following official communication:

"Our offensive continues on the left bank of the Niemen and in the district northwest of Grodno. Our troops drove the Germans back behind the front of Sopotzkin-Lypskov and then pushed on vigorously.

"In a similar manner in the Miawa district our attacks were crowned with success. We took about 500 prisoners, including seven officers, and also three machine guns.

"On the left bank of the Vistula, in the region of the Pilica, the fighting is assuming the character of a great battle.

"In the Carpathians, between the Ondawa and San rivers, the Austrian attacks continue; southwest of Lutowisko the enemy tried to cross to the right bank of the San, but in a counter-attack Saturday night the Austrian units which had crossed the river were annihilated.

GROUND GAINED BY FRENCH.

Paris, March 7.—The following official communication was issued tonight:

"To the north of Arras, at Notre Dame de Lorette, the Germans attempted a counter-attack which did not succeed. Subsequently they delivered three counter-attacks which also failed.

"In Champagne, to the west of Perthes, we gained a footing in a very strongly fortified wood and captured prisoners to the north of the same village.

"We repulsed a counter-attack on the ridge to the northeast of Le Mesnil. Ground was gained and we carried another trench to the north of Beausejour.

"In the forest of Consenvoye, north of Verdun, we repulsed counter-attacks.

"In the Vosges we made progress on the flanks of the Reich Ackerkopf and took prisoners at Hartmanns-Weilerkopf. Here we repulsed five counter-attacks.

"Despite vigorous and well planned attacks the Germans were repulsed for the fourth time before a blockhouse in the Le Pretre wood.

"An attack on March 4 in which, under cover of artillery fire, the Germans sought to take the position by a hand-to-hand encounter was unsuccessful."

The communication issued in the afternoon follows:

"We continued to gain ground north of Arras. In the region of Notre Dame de Lorette, where we seized several trenches, the enemy's losses were important.

"In Champagne we progressed slightly north of Perthes and northwest of Beausejour.

"In the Vosges we captured successively west of Munster two summits. The enemy twice counter-attacked from Muehlbach and St. Ollfwehr, that is from the south and north. These attacks were repulsed.

"Moreover, on the right bank of the Fecht river we seized Imberg, two-thirds of a mile southeast of Fultzeren. This success was completed farther north by the capture of Hill 856, south of Hauteshuttes. Finally at Hartmanns-Weilerkopf we repulsed a counter-attack by a German battalion, which lost heavily and left many prisoners in our hands."

GAINS CLAIMED BY GERMANS.

Berlin, March 7.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—The following statement was issued today by the German war office:

"Between the sea and the Somme there were only artillery duels yesterday. Enemy attempts to advance during the night south of Ypres failed.

"Our troops made progress in Champagne. We took a few trenches and about sixty prisoners. A French attack in force against our positions northeast of Le Mesnil broke down with very heavy losses to the French. The enemy's advances east of Badonviller were repulsed.

"Battles commenced yesterday in the Vosges, west of Munster and north of Sonnheim, have not net been decided.

"In the east: Our operations northwest of Grodno are proceeding to our plan. A Russian night attack at Mocarce, northeast of Lomza, was repulsed, as were strong Russian attacks west of Przasnysz.

"Our attacks southeast of the Rawa river were successful. We took prisoners 3,400 Russians and sixteen machine guns were captured."

SUCCESS CLAIMED BY AUSTRIANS.

Vienna, March 7.—(Via London.)—The following official communication was issued today:

"In Poland yesterday fighting occurred in limited areas.

"The Russians were compelled by our artillery to evacuate advanced positions in the Carpathians, where at several points fights for favorable heights continue. The Russians have suffered considerable losses.

"Night attacks by the Russians were everywhere repulsed. Five officers and seventy-five men were captured.

"In northeast Galicia calm continues."

HEAVY SNOWS STOP OPERATIONS.

London, March 7.—Heavy snows in the Carpathians have stopped military operations, says a Reuter's Venice dispatch. The Austro-Hungarian troops are reported suffering because the sudden change in weather has deprived many of supplies by cutting their lines of communication.

NO CHANGE SOUGHT BY SOUTHERN ROAD

"Still Checking Baggage and Selling Through Pullman Accommodations on Split Tickets," Says Hardwick.

Despite the regulation of the lines east of Washington which denies passengers traveling on "split tickets" from New York to points south of Washington the privilege of checking their baggage through or of buying through Pullman accommodations, the Southern railway and the other lines running south from Washington are still checking baggage through and selling through Pullman accommodations to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other eastern points where the passenger holds mileage or any other form of transportation good to Washington, and also mileage or any other form of transportation good from Washington to his destination, declared Passenger Traffic Manager S. H. Hardwick, of the Southern railway, who was in Atlanta yesterday.

Mr. Hardwick, who was the only railway official who appeared in opposition to this regulation which is causing such a storm of protest over the south, when a hearing concerning it was recently held at Baltimore before a special examiner of the interstate commerce commission, was asked as to the reasons which impelled the Southern railway to oppose this regulation proposed by the eastern lines and said:

Position of Southern.

"The position of the Southern railway is simply this: That as we are selling the mileage books and they are recognized as a valid form of transportation, their use should not be surrounded with any restrictions which cause the passenger needless inconvenience or annoyance. However, there is involved in the question at issue a great deal more than the use of mileage books, for if the regulation proposed by the eastern lines is upheld by the interstate commerce commission, it will be unlawful for the carriers to check baggage through or sell through Pullman accommodations from any point east of Washington to any destination south of Washington on any kind of 'split ticket,' even if each portion of it was bought at the standard fare of the issuing company. And I assume that the ruling to be made by the commission will apply to the whole country and that we shall have to act in accordance with it in handling passengers northbound, while at the present time in common with the other southern lines we are continuing to check baggage through and sell through Pullman accommodations on 'split tickets' despite the fact that the eastern lines will not give these privileges to passengers wishing to travel from New York to the south on such transportation. The regulation now applies only to New York, as the tariff making it applicable to other points was suspended by the commission. Testimony has been taken and oral argument will be heard before the whole commission in Washington April 7.

When Change Was Made.

"As to the sale of mileage books in New York city which seems to have precipitated this whole trouble, this is nothing new, for as far back as thirty years ago individual mileage books of southern lines were on sale in New York, and when the southeastern interchangeable mileage book was promulgated in April, 1908, it was also placed on sale there and during all this time baggage was checked through and through Pullman accommodations sold for passengers wishing to use them.

"Four years ago, when, at the request of the eastern lines, we continued the sale of mileage books in New York, it was with the understanding that we would continue to issue our mileage exchange tickets in New York.

"We simply withdrew from sale in New York the mileage book itself, but if a passenger had a mileage book he could have it exchanged in our New York office. We were subjected to much criticism from our patrons in the south on account of discontinuing the sale of mileage books in New York. Suppose a man went from Atlanta to New York and when ready to return went to our ticket office to have his mileage exchanged and found that he had not enough coupons to cover the 650 miles from Washington to Atlanta. He could not understand why we could not sell him another book when we were ready to exchange the mileage for a ticket if he had it. We came to the conclusion that there was no reason why we should not render him the service of selling him a mileage book with which to complete his journey to Atlanta, so after notice to the other lines we again began the sale of mileage books, in New York city in October, 1914.

Protect Mileage Books.

"The Southern railway needs all the money it can get, especially at this time, and we are certainly not endeavoring to aid any plan to cut the rate, but, as I said before, as long as the mileage books are on sale we do not believe that their use should be made inconvenient. As a matter of fact, the enforcement of the proposed regulation will put on the carriers a great deal of useless handling of baggage which will entail heavy expense and furnish no end of opportunities for damage claims and other troubles which are the cause of friction between the roads and their patrons, all of which we are most anxious to avoid.

"Though some isolated rulings of the commission have been quoted as indicating that it would support the proposed regulation, I do not believe it will do so, but rather that it will follow the line of reasoning of Judge Clements, in opinion 1882, which, in my opinion, states the law as regards the use of 'split tickets' and is quite opposed to the denial of baggage checking and through Pullman accommodations to the holders of two or more forms of interstate transportation, all issued under the law."

FATHER HERE LOOKING FOR THREE RUNAWAYS

After searching the city for several days, A. L. Garland, a peach grower of Cornelia, Ga., appealed to the police late last night for assistance in locating his two small sons and a companion who ran away from school a day or two ago. Mr. Garland stated that, according to his information, the young boys were headed for the Panama exposition on a combined cash account of $10.

In describing the roaming urchins, he gave the following details: Grady Garland, 15 years old, 5 feet 6 inches high, weighs 130 pounds, gray knee pants, black shoes, green hat, brown coat and light hair; Frank Garland, 12 years old, black eyes, brown hair, black cap and tan shoes; William Spencer, 14 years old, gray suit, soft hat, blue eyes and light hair. Mr. Garland states that he will be stopping at the Folsom hotel until Tuesday night.

THAW GOES TO TRIAL AS A CONSPIRATOR

Another Chapter in Case of White's Slayer Begins in New York Courts — Five Men Indicted With Thaw.

New York, March 7.—Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, will be put on trial tomorrow in the supreme court on a charge of conspiracy growing out of his escape from the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan in August, 1913.

Thaw has been prisoner or fugitive since the night of June 25, 1906, when he shot and killed Stanford White on the Madison Square Garden roof. After two trials, the first of which resulted in a disagreement, he was acquitted on the ground of insanity and was sent to Matteawan.

Then began Thaw's fight for liberty. Writs of habeas corpus were obtained at various times, requiring his appearance in court to establish his sanity. These proceedings invariably resulted unfavorably to him.

Thaw Escaped in Auto.

On Sunday, August 17, 1913, Thaw escaped in an automobile, eluded capture for two days and finally was arrested at Coaticook, Canada. He subsequently was released by the Canadian authorities and sent into Vermont. He fled to Colebrook, N. H., where he obtained counsel and prepared to fight against returning to Matteawan.

A writ of habeas corpus was obtained from a federal judge at Concord and Thaw automatically became a government charge. Argument on the writ was delayed until Governor Felker, of New Hampshire, could decide to grant or deny the fugitive's extradition.

The governor finally decided that Thaw should be extradited and then the case went back to the United States supreme court on the broad issue that Thaw's rights under the constitution were being violated; that New York, holding him legally insane, sought his extradition on a charge of conspiracy. Thaw was kept in custody, but was taken in charge by New York state officers about seven weeks ago when the supreme court ruled that he could be brought back here on an indictment for conspiracy.

Five Indicted as Accomplices.

With Thaw were indicted Richard Butler, Thomas Flood, Michael O'Keefe, Roger Thompson and Eugene Duffy, who are alleged to have aided him in his escape from Matteawan and who will be tried with him.

Thaw's counsel, which includes John B. Stanchfield, Morgan J. O'Brien and Abel I. Smith, formerly assistant United States district attorney, is expected to contend that he cannot be convicted of the conspiracy charge while still held to be an insane person, or that the state, in pressing a conspiracy charge, has virtually admitted his sanity; while the state, on the other hand, it is understood, will maintain that Thaw might conspire to commit an unlawful act, but still be legally in the custody of the state as an insane charge.

Conspiracy is a misdemeanor and the maximum penalty is one year in the penitentiary and a fine of $500.

the South American countries from Mexico, however, and the fact that they are not as interested in Mexican affairs as the United States is given by some diplomatists from Pan-American circles as a reason for thinking any joint action unlikely.

Messages that have passed a rigorous censorship tell of a desperate condition of affairs in Mexico City. They say Mexico City is hungry and starvation for thousands would not be surprising if relief does not come soon. Carranza's order to Obregon prohibiting the populace from using Villa money has made many persons penniless. Disturbed by demonstrations, Obregon permitted a partial exchange of Villa money, but received a curt telegram from Carranza informing him not to waste his energies ameliorating conditions arising from the shortage of money since the people were to blame for accepting Villa currency; that if conditions did not improve he should evacuate, leaving the situation to be solved by the bankers and other wealthy residents who were responsible. Carranza specifically instructed Obregon not to use his army in quelling riots.

Bread Made of Bran.

Many Mexico City bakeries are putting out bread made of bran and extortionate prices are charged for it.

Almost every train from Mexico City carries more refugees to Vera Cruz. In the latter city expressions of bitter resentment are heard against the people of Mexico City for failing to support Carranza while he was there. The public in Vera Cruz learns of developments only through out-of-date American newspapers, the circulation of which is restricted. The censorship there prevents the transmission to or from Vera Cruz of any news under severe penalties.

A statement issued by the Carranza agency here tonight, said to be based on advices from Vera Cruz, said foreigners were not in danger in Mexico City and that General Obregon was not stirring up anti-foreign sentiment.

BILLIE BURKE SELLS HER PHOTOS TO AID SUFFERING BELGIANS

Miss Billie Burke, who is opening at the Atlanta theater tonight in "Jerry," offers anyone who wants to donate a small amount to the Belgian war victims a means of doing it. She is selling her signed photos and all the money she receives she is sending to the Belgian Red Cross. The photos will be on sale at the box office while Miss Burke is playing at the Atlanta. Miss Burke is also economizing on her dressmaker's and milliner's bills this winter, buying only such things as she actually needs. What she saves is to go to the Belgians.

VICE SCATTERED OVER CITY, ASSERTS ATKINSON

tion that "great cities have outgrown the need of revivals. Atlanta no longer needs one. It needs a bigger, broader sort of religion, an enduring religion.

"Men like Billy Sunday, the marvelous maniac, may do a lot of good, but they do also a lot of harm. (It is of interest at this point to know that Billy Sunday is a protege of Dr. Chapman, the object of Dean Atkinson's criticism. Sunday broke into the game under Dr. Chapman.)

"There are 250 churches in Atlanta. With all these religious institutions, can Atlanta be in need of more? Does Atlanta require a revivalist to bolster up her religion? If such is the sad case, it is most apparent that her churches are not doing their duty.

"Yet I understand that the churches themselves called Dr. Chapman and his organization.

"If the churches who called Dr. Chapman are not able to fill their own pews, why don't they make their religion interesting, instead of having to call in religion physicians?

"If our own preachers can't teach us and show us the way, do we have to hire some man to come and teach us? We should be brave enough and able to tell such men that we will depend upon our own souls and preachers, and, if we can't do this, that we will go to hell in our own fashion."

This advice was greeted by the burst of applause which was cut short by the minister denunciation. His rebuke of the audience also contained a stinging reference to the revival organization:

DON'T WANT APPLAUSE.

"I don't want your applause. I want your quiet, conscientious reflection. I want you to think, not give vent to a turbulent inner-self. I don't want to appeal to your emotions. Emotion in this respect is cheap. It doesn't become religion. I would not, if I could, take advantage of the emotions. I shudder at the religion that shouts and dramatizes, and, by telling stories and singing tearful songs, leads its converts down the aisle."

Turning his shafts upon the Men and Religion Forward Movement Dr. Atkinson described the organization as a group of enthusiastic reformers who were unwisely advertising the city. He rebuked the body for their vilification of Mayor Woodward and his administration and urged them to turn their activities toward the "more productive labor of lending helping hands."

"Men of this sort," he spoke, "ought to get out and 'get as busy as beavers.' They should begin at the tabernacle and go down the route. The beer saloons, the hotels, the streets should occupy their attention, not the unfair advertising methods they employ.

"You should release yourself from moral slavery. Shake off the shackles. Resent it as an insult. Let no man undertake to supervise your own morals, if you have a conscience and convictions of your own. Be manly, be upright, be brave—be free!

"Try neither to blame much or fear much blame.

"Advertising of the Men and Religion sort is unjust. It discredits the city; blackens its reputation in other parts of the law. It puts the city at a disadvantage.

DELIVER MESSAGE.

"There are thousands of souls in this city awaiting a truer, broader, more honorable conception of civic righteousness. It is to this class that my appeal is made. I am here neither to please nor displease. If you do not want me, I will pack and depart. I am not going to keep my gloves on.

"My mission is to deliver a message. And, in this message, I ask you are these conditions right?

"The Men and Religion people have accused Atlanta, yet they have produced no proof. They have advertised it to the world as a lawless, unclean city, when it is untrue. I am here to protest.

"When a thing is right and your conscience tells you so, say it. Do the manly thing. Have the 'guts,' to use an expression of the streets, but one which is emphatically fitting.

"Have the 'guts' to protest against this unfair advertisement of your city!

"Atlanta is half dead in a lot of respects. Atlanta doesn't like to be criticised, but I have said, I am here to neither please nor displease. You have, lots of you, wrong ideas of religion—dogmatic, narrow. You have accomplished wonderful achievements materially, but spiritually, you are lagging. You naturally are lagging, if you permit a religious despot to become your moral dictator.

"Why not say to this religious guide who is the self-appointed judge of your moral self, 'Appeal to my conscience and my manliness instead?'"

Dr. Atkinson here inserted the details of his noted address before the Ad Men Thursday a week ago, when he first criticised the revivals and the Men and Religion organization. He also recalled his attack upon the sign, "Get Right With God" upon the front of the Chapman-Alexander tabernacle.

RESENTS SLANG.

"In the course of my duties as a minister and citizen," he said, "I was invited to deliver an address before the Ad Men, a quiet, conservative body of representative business men. During my little talk, I took occasion to censure the glaring, offensive sign upon the tabernacle, thrust upon me as I passed it daily. The slang does God an injustice. It is wrong.

"Yet, I was severely upbraided by many for this resentment. It was the wrong thing for me to criticise the sign, I was informed. It was wrong for me to lament the existence of something that offended my sense of decency and proportion.

"The men who took this critical attitude toward me are not ashamed to advertise Atlanta, a clean and model city, as a dirty city.

"However, they haven't proved it. There are many questions in this regard that they should be called upon to answer."

The dean, with these words, ended the second part of his address. A hymn was sung, and he begged the audience to permit him another twenty minutes "that he might deliver his sermon," based upon the text, "Awake, Thou Who Sleepest."

He delivered a forceful sermon upon the true conceptions of God and religion, and pleaded with his hearers to awake to the correct religion.

"With the hundreds of churches in Atlanta working to that end," he said, "we have reached but the outer fringes of the light. Materialistically, you have made vast advances. Atlanta, in this respect, is a phenomenal city. The man of fifty years ago would be dumfounded to look upon the Atlanta of today.

"But you must cultivate your religious, your spiritual self. Learn that God's religion means 'Give and Forgive.' Don't observe the creed of 'Get and Forget' that enslaves so many. Be clean, sober and upright. Live your life that it might be complete. Measure up to God's truth, not my conception or some other man's."

During his sermon, Dr. Atkinson took occasion to commend Rev. Chapman's sermon on heaven.

"That," he said, "is the sort of preaching that saves souls substantially."

MUNICIPAL PLAYHOUSE.

Concluding the third part of his address, Dr. Atkinson advocated the inauguration of a municipal playhouse in the tabernacle, saying:

"It is timely that I urge this muchly-abused theater of mine. Why not get a certain rich man of whom all the preachers have spoken so well to take over the tabernacle when revival is through and convert it into a place of amusement where the working girls and women and men and boys can find clean, wholesome and beneficial pleasure?"

The volume from which Dr. Atkinson quoted in his reference to Atlanta's vice situation, is "The Cause of the Social Evil and its Remedy," written by Albert W. Elliott. The marked passages, from which the speaker took excerpts, are:

"Now, let's discuss for a moment the achievements of the Men and Religion Forward Movement in the city of Atlanta.

"This organization states that the evangelical ministers' (they seem to take no credit to themselves) by spending a little over $2,000, ended a $700,000 a year infamy. Actually ended vice in Atlanta! Do you believe it? If you do I must admit that you have a sublime faith in the utterance of these men.

"In addition to this $2,000 that they claim it cost to eliminate vice in Atlanta, it also cost the life of one of the inmates; but this is not all. It scattered these women all over the city, and they are in Atlanta now and will ever be here.

"Now, as to the accomplishments of the Men and Religion Movement, the report was heralded broadcast that they rescued 118 inmates of brothels in Atlanta and that 116 remained firm and embraced a pure life. If an organization really is striving to do something for the glory of God why are such exaggerated statements given the public?"

The audience that heard Dr. Atkinson was the largest that has attended any of the many religious services held in the Grand. Men and women and young girls were forced to stand. The galleries and balconies were filled, and, on the first floor, his hearers hung upon the back rail and crowded even as far as the lobby.

PLAN NEW RULES FOR POLICE CHIEF

Commissioners Want Beavers to Get All His Ideas About Running Department From Members of the Board.

According to statements of a number of police commissioners, when the new board meets Tuesday night for its first time, Police Chief James L. Beavers will be given definite instructions that none other than the police board shall have anything to do with the affairs of the police department.

Several of the commissioners have stated that they realize that there are outside "powers" which appear to exercise influence in determining the policies of Chief Beavers.

"But," remarked one of the commissioners, "the police board is going to let the chief understand in a nice way that he is to get all ideas about running the department from the police board."

It was only at its last meeting that the police board for the first time in many months asserted its authority over the police chief, giving him written instructions that he must carry out their wishes that the so-called vice squad be put to work in uniforms.

"This order," said a commissioner, "marks a new epoch in the management of the affairs of the police department and of the police chief. The board ought to be consulted on all important matters that come to the attention of the police chief, and the members are now determined to insist upon their rights."

Mayor Woodward has asserted several times that Marion Jackson and his movement had more control over the police chief and police matters than the entire police board.

"I am glad to hear," said Mayor Woodward, "that the police board is going to assert its authority, and let outsiders understand that the board is running the police department, and outlining its policies."

THE STARVATION GAME.

It is a titanic game of chess that the Germans and the English are playing against each other in their efforts at the mutual starving-out process. That is the meaning of the submarine whiplash thrown around England by Germany and England's retaliation in promulgating measures to isolate Germany from the commerce of the world.

Each strives to take advantage of the known weakness of the other. England subsists almost entirely upon imported products, and relies largely upon imports for her munitions of war. Germany is in the same condition, the difference being in degree only.

The Germans made the first move, by declaring all the waters surrounding Great Britain a war area, and flinging their submarines into the pit with the implication that in their determination to starve England they could guarantee no safety to neutral commerce.

The British note in reply to the German war zone declaration, said:

"Germany has declared that the English channel, the north and west coast of France and the waters around the British isles are a war area, and has officially notified that all enemy ships found in that area will be destroyed and that neutral vessels may be exposed to danger. This is in effect a claim to torpedo at sight, without regard to the safety of the crew or passengers, any merchant vessel under any flag. As it is not in the power of the German admiralty to maintain any surface craft in these waters this attack can only be delivered by submarine agency."

Declaring this to be a violation of all rules of warfare heretofore recognized, Great Britain continues:

"Germany is adopting these measures against peaceful traders and noncombatant crews with the avowed object of preventing commodities of all kinds, including food for the civil population, from reaching or leaving the British isles or northern France. Her opponents are, therefore, driven to frame retaliatory measures in order in their turn to prevent commodities of any kind from reaching or leaving Germany."

This is to be accomplished by seizing all shipping suspected of having a German destination, regardless of the flag under which it sails.

In other words, it is the weapon of starvation against the weapon of starvation, and in the tussle both nations have broken over the boundaries heretofore erected by international law and usage for the protection of neutral shipping. England claims that Germany took the first plunge, thereby forcing her in self-preservation into a similar course.

The solution, of course, in which American and all neutral shipping is vitally interested is in a restoration of the normal status prevailing before the adoption of these extraordinary measures.

In persuading both belligerents into reasonableness and mutual concession, Washington faces an admittedly delicate task.

Fortunately, in the dispatches that come from Washington, there is a suggestion of optimism. Let us hope for the best.

WHEN VOTERS STAY AWAKE.

A significant and, it is to be hoped a permanent, change in American political methods was noted by Mark O. Prentiss, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in the address he made recently in Atlanta. It was the announcement that the business man has arrived in politics to stay, not in a pernicious, but in a constructive sense. He referred to the referendum the chamber had taken of business men of the country on nine great issues, including currency revision, a permanent tariff board, the federal trade commission, class commission, and questions of like magnitude.

It has always been axiomatic in American politics that government became inefficient because of the indifference of the voter. The latter would not follow the doings of congress with any degree of regularity or intelligence, since there have been few facilities for so doing. It is not every citizen who can tell, simply from reading his newspaper, what is going on under the surface at Washington, or at other parts of the country. He has not studied politics as he would his business, or even his favorite diversion. The result is that when some question of importance arises he has, in the past, been apt to wave it aside with the remark, "Let the politicians attend to that." And the politicians have not failed to attend to "It." That is the biggest part of their job.

Now a new day is dawning, and it is just such a day as is foreshadowed by the words of Prentiss in Atlanta. The business man wants to "know." In politics, national, municipal and state, he is increasingly from "Missouri." He is finding out what the founders of this government intended he should find out, and that is that he is a very large and definite part of this government, but that the only way to secure an efficient administration of it is to observe eternal vigilance.

In other words, the business man, the voter generally, for that matter, whether the laborer or the farmer, have torn a leaf from the book of the politicians. They are learning the art of never going to sleep. Formerly, after they had effected what they assumed to be a "reform," they went peacefully snoozing again, and the old methods and old inefficiency crept back. They have discovered that this sort of thing is as fatal to good government as it is to good private business. So the new keynote in the electorate is, "A little more politics for the voter, as well as the politician." England is a better democracy than ours, because it is built on that reasoning.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA.

So preoccupied were the American people with the European war and troubles nearer home that it is doubtful if they caught the full significance of the address made by Franklin K. Lane at the San Francisco exposition. Speaking as a native westerner and as the personal representative of President Wilson, his dual role gave these vivid words the touch, almost, of inspiration:

> The sculptors who have ennobled these buildings with their work have surely given full swing to their fancy in seeking to symbolize the tale which this exposition tells. And among these figures I have sought for one which would represent to me the significance of this great enterprise. Prophets, priests and kings are here, conquerors and mystical figures of ancient legend, but these do not speak the word I hear. My eye is drawn to the least conspicuous figure of all—the modest figure of a man standing beside two oxen, who look down upon the court of the nations, when east and west comes face to face. Without him we would not be here. Without him banners would not fly nor bands play. Without him San Francisco would not be today the gayest city of the globe. Shall I tell you who he is, this key figure in the arch of our enterprise? That slender, dauntless, plodding, modest figure is the American pioneer. To me he is far more. He is the adventuresome spirit of our restless race. The long journey to this slight, modest figure that stands beside the oxen is at an end. The waste places of the earth have been found. But adventure is not to end. Here will be taught the gospel of an advancing democracy—strong, valiant, confident, conquering—upborne and typified by the independent spirit of the American pioneer.

It is true that it is the pioneer that made the west, as it was the pioneer that made this country, since Columbus was the pioneer of his day. Steadily since the first settlements were found stably, it has been the spirit of adventure that advanced the frontiers of America, pushing out by painful and bloody processes until the American flag dipped in the Pacific and rested in California to stay, after our war with Mexico.

But the more thrilling implication of Lane's address is that which reminds us that in the human breast, and in America especially, the spirit of adventure is never dead and will never die. It may be there are no more lands to conquer. Indeed, this country seems to have had its fill of imperialism, and the age in which we live, at least, appears committed against it. But there is adventure in other directions, in the realms of science, of commerce, of sociology, of psychology of every field where the mind may busy itself in blazing trails or pushing farther trails already started by others.

That is the spirit which has made America—the spirit of the adventurer, in the nobler sense, of the trail-blazer, the man with the inquiring mind turning always anxiously forward to new conquests. It is the spirit which must be relied upon to keep for us our place in the sun. The day it is diminished marks the turning backward of the destiny of the nation.

ELLAVILLE---NOT ATLANTA.

Ellaville, in Schley county, has joined the honor roll of far-seeing Georgia towns that believe in keeping their school systems up to date, and that believe posterity should bear a part of the burden.

Recently an election was held in Ellaville to decide if bonds should be issued for a modern school building. The wideawake citizens were not satisfied with the plant that is at present doing service. Since the citizens of the future must shoulder the burdens of the future, Ellaville reasoned they should be educated under the best procurable environment. In other words, that they should have a square deal and a fair start.

Only six votes were cast against the bonds.

Ellaville, Conyers, Rome, Albany, Macon and other towns—all smaller than Atlanta—have recently either authorized bonds for school purposes or permanent improvements generally, or are debating the subject with a bias toward favorable action.

Atlanta, the capital of the state, the second largest city in the south, with a reputation extending beyond the boundaries of the nation—

Finds her school system faced by an impasse because the municipality, by its penny wise pound foolish policy, has not recognized the principle adopted without hesitation by lesser towns. That principle is the use of current revenue for current upkeep and of credit for improvements essentially permanent.

How long will Atlanta be shamed by the smaller towns of the state?

When the Old World Whistles.

I.

After Winter's stormy shout,
And the lonesome rainy day,
You jes' let a sunbeam out,
Old world whistles on the way!

II.

Then the heart is lifted high,
Seems to dream the dream of May;
Send one flash of sunny sky,
Old world whistles on the way!

III.

That's the way we like the world,
After gloomy heavens of gray,
With the solemn storm-clouds furled,
How it whistles on the way!

"A Little Bit of Song."

In one of his recent poems, in The Houston Post, Judd Mortimer Lewis has this stanza:

"A little bit o' jollying, a little bit o' song,
A little bit o' lovin', and although the ways are long
You can get the sunshine in 'em, and the blooms to make 'em sweet,
You can roll away the dornicks that are layin' for your feet,
You can roll the gloom off from you with a little bit o' chaff,
You can banish Old Man Trouble if you meet him with a laugh!"

When the Sun Slipped Through.

One of the rhyming correspondents of The Campbell News writes:

"The sun has slipped through a window pane
And is brightening up this sheet.
Our canary, suspended by a chain,
Is singing his song most sweet."

So it seems that in Campbellton the canaries beat the mockingbirds to it.

The Original Receipt.

"Now will Kentucky stop cultivating mint and the concoction of juleps?" asks The Florida Times-Union. And you can almost hear a voice reply: "Not while the original receipt for the latter is framed in gold which has so far resisted a transfer to the curiosity shops of covetous world-millionaires!"

A Pretty Good Road.

It's a pretty good road
When we travel along:
The sigh may be with us,
But sweet is the song:
There is rest in the vales
Where the violets throng,—
It's a pretty good road where we travel!

I mortgaged my home to purchase an automobile, then the auto, in a humorous freak, ran down and disabled for life the man who held the mortgage. And to think, I had so many enemies I had hoped to put out of business with that same machine!

REPENTANCE

By Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman, D. D.

REV. J. WILBUR CHAPMAN, D.D.

Repentance is not sorrow for sin.

I have seen men so sorry for sin that they would, if they could, have wept tears of blood.

But one may be heartily sorry for his transgressions, and continue to walk in the way that ends in death.

Repentance is not remorse on account of sin. I have seen remorse in the lives of some people which was perfectly horrible to behold. I saw a man spring up in one of our meetings in New York, crying, "Remorse, remorse, I am such a sinner." But he did not repent.

One of the definitions I know for repentance was given to me by a minister in Minneapolis, when he said: "Repentance is being so sorry for sin that, with God's help, we will give it up." This definition may not be theological, but it is most practical, and a man lost in sin can understand it.

My recommendation is that Christ be accepted. He comes into the life to live, strengthen the will and makes it possible to turn away from that which has defeated us for years. He is a mighty Savior and a marvelous friend.

Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish.—Luke 13:3.

Repent ye therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord.—Acts 3:19.

Fortune Beckons Us in South America, But We Must Meet It Half Way

Charles C. Thomas, a young man well known in Atlanta, maintaining important business connections in New York, and formerly with Inman, Akers & Inman, of this city, has just returned to New York after a trade tour of South America. He writes The Constitution the following interesting letter, showing that prospects for southern and American business in South America are brilliant, but that we must conform to local custom and go out after the trade.

His letter follows:

The Truth About It.

Editor Constitution: I have just returned from my preliminary investigation of business conditions in various South American countries, having, as you know, undertaken this work for some of our largest American manufacturers, who are interested in the prospects South America offers the United States. My trip proved a satisfactory one and it has occurred to me you would be interested somewhat in the commercial point of view I received, particularly as American newspapers and magazines have published so many recent articles as to what these countries might offer.

As far as securing an immediate business from the west coast—composed of Ecuador, Peru and Chili—for the present, at least, our manufacturers must be content with the same amount of sales we have received in recent years. This is due to the conditions suddenly forced upon the Latin-American business man by the European war, for he has been suddenly deprived of his former credit connections, and has consequently taken refuge behind the barriers of a moratorium. Peru and Ecuador have had the longest credits given to their merchants by Europeans of any of these South American republics, a condition due to the conservatism of these people in receiving new articles into their personal and business affairs; and the well-known uncertainty as to final payment that attaches to all credits in a strictly agricultural community.

Long Credits.

I have known instances where the French have extended credits of three years on sugar-mill installations, although the usual credit term averages six months. Ecuador persists in certain antagonisms to the "Americano del Norte," but Peru looks upon us with high favor, and wants us to come down. Northern Chili, the nitrate center of the world, is dead in a business way. Mines have generally closed and over a hundred thousand "votas"—native laborers—and their families have been sent from this section into the farming and ranch country to the south, although many have been illy provided for, in consequence of which one sees the bread-line before all the great churches, hotels and clubs, while I could never walk twenty feet in their plazas without a solicitation for alms.

We are coming into our own in Chili, for they are beginning to forgive us for some of the riotous acts of our men when our round-the-world battle fleet touched these shores. Our manufactured goods are in high repute, but lack sorely the diversified character of the goods sold to the Chileans by England and Germany. To my idea Chile should prove a fertile field for our manufacturers, just as soon as the American merchant is persuaded to forget his present provincial ideas of the length of credits he deems fit to offer these people.

The Argentine.

The Argentine—what a marvelous country—is recovering rapidly from the effects of the European war. Her products are in keen demand by the Europeans, many of whom are buying wheat, maize, barley, alfalfa, horses, frozen beef and mutton, and shipping their purchases direct. This country expects to export a possible $700,000,000 worth of products this year, for splendid prices prevail for wheat, cattle and wool. Uruguay seems in fair condition financially in spite of a lack of credit or available gold, for her people are philosophic and have an utmost faith in the worth of their country. In Brazil, business is off badly, with none of the ports doing a normal business except Pernambuco, which draws on a territory of a very diversified character. In Brazil the merchants expect to carry over to next year 14,000,000 bags of coffee out of the expected crop of 18,000,000 bags, and they all realize their rubber industry must be re-established upon an entirely different basis if Brazil wishes to retain the bulk of the world's trade in this product.

We should secure a greater share of the business of these republics, for the field offered is a most legitimate one for us to enter. Expositions of American-made goods should be established in every large center, with competent officials in charge—officials not only possessing business acumen of the highest type, but officials also possessing a sufficiently pleasing personality as to be acceptable to these sensitive Latins. Let me here say in this connection that I had so many business men—Americans already established in business and men of the various countries—to urge the importance of sending representatives from the south, for our southerners and the Latins of South America have many traits in common. "Manyana" is no longer in the business vocabulary of these nations, but tactfulness in approach and a high regard for social niceties are important factors in securing a first order.

Our Stock High.

Today "el Americano del Norte" is in higher favor in South American countries than ever before. The European war has at last brought home the knowledge that the Monroe Doctrine has held for him and his family a premier expression of safety, and he is regretting his former conception, i. e., that the eagle would one day swoop upon him and absorb his country and his country's industries. With the National City bank, of New York, establishing branches at Rio de Janeiro, Santos, Buenos Aires, and with several other branches contemplated, our other banks are looking into the field as representatives from banks in Boston, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans, in addition to one of our largest express companies, are investigating the field with the idea of entering and securing a share of the trade. No longer will the American manufacturer plead a lack of our own banking facilities as his excuse for not entering this field, for every facility will be given him to do business in very much the same style as business is done in the United States.

If our manufacturers will educate themselves, the opportunity offering must be realized. The market demands careful thought and cultivation, and a thorough knowledge of the conditions prevailing in the different countries, but if we secure a foundation at this favorable time, in a few years we should have achieved advantageous results.

I expect to visit Atlanta shortly.

THE BATTLE CRUISER.

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

Next to the submarine, the most disagreeable craft to have around when peace isn't being indulged in is the battle cruiser.

The United States, which proceeds cautiously, adopting naval plans as soon as other nations have discarded them, has not as yet discovered the battle cruiser, but Germany has. She discovered some of England's late in December, and also in January. The result of the discovery in each instance was tragic in the extreme.

The battle cruiser is a sort of welterweight battleship, with express train attachments. It carries guns big enough to shoot up anything afloat, and enough armor to make it impervious to any shells smaller than a nail keg. It also contains a set of engines which can drive it about 35 miles an hour.

This is the greatest talent of the battle cruiser. It is faster than the old style torpedo boat and it can run away from a torpedo itself. It is faster than a limited train on a "safety first" railroad. It is so fast that it only has to fight when it wants to.

When a battle cruiser goes out on a little gunning expedition and meets a flock of battleships, the captain does not lash the flag to the mast and order the band to play while the ship is going down. He turns around and runs. The Lusitania would look like a dock beside a battle cruiser which was engaged in going away from somewhere at top speed. But when the battle cruiser meets an enemy with guns a little smaller in the waist than its own, it doesn't also run. It runs just fast enough to allow the enemy's shots to make beautiful fountains of the water about 1,000 yards astern while it is dropping shells in the said enemy's smokestacks and other vital spots and shooting it into a mass of unidentified remains.

England has many very fine battle cruis-

The battle cruiser is faster than the old style torpedo boat and can run away from a torpedo itself.

ers and so has Germany. If these cruisers ever become peeved at the United States they would cause us a great deal of embarrassment. They would run away from our battleships and would refuse to let anything else run away from them. If our fastest cruiser set out to catch a real battle cruiser, the latter would catch up with it from behind and ram it in the stern in less than two weeks.

A battle cruiser is very docile when kindly treated by its owner, and why our navy department is so afraid of them is a mystery.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

JESS WILLARD.

Jess Willard would restore the wreath that Johnsing wrested from the whites; with warlike zeal he grinds his teeth, this hero of at least two fights. Alas, our bosoms are not warmed, when such a hero gambols in; unless black Jack is chloroformed, we do not see how Jess can win. The chances are he'll come to grief before they're fairly down to biz; for, while he's surely long on beef, the spark of genius isn't his. He hasn't the immortal fire which made the Bard of Avon great, which made Jack Milton punch his lyre, and get his laurel crown on straight. He has the lard, his heart is game, he has the height, he has the reach; but, oh, he lacks that deathless flame which makes the pugilistic peach. With confidence he goes to meet the greatest fighter on this sphere, but he will tumble o'er his feet, and cork himself and interfere. They'll bear him helpless from the ring, while drearily the White Face groans, and Johnsing, he will dance and sing, and draw his thirty thousand bones.

WHY THE DOCTORS OUTLIVE US.

(From The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)

"Do medical men live longer than other men?" Pursuing this self-evident and painful proposition, Dr. Philip Skrainka, alias The Interstate Medical Journal, takes his scalpel in hand, dips it in ink and indulges in some cutting humor at the expense of the laity.

Quoting a queer-named medical person, Dr. Drinkwater, upon the fascinating topic of the longevity of eminent practitioners, the felicitous Skrainka cites 2,113 lives of doughty doctors that averaged 67 years and 5 months, "whereas the life of a nonmedical man is 50 years." Then he chortles: "Thus can be seen at once the advantages of being a medical man and the fallacy of the belief that his life is much shorter than that of other men."

Considering that the lives of the laity are specially intrusted to the doctors, isn't their boast in bad taste? Frankly, we don't see the joke. It seems to us that doctors should be the last to pride themselves upon neglect of the principle to live and let live.

Suppose that the tables were turned and the lives of the doctors were committed to the tender mercy of the laity—would we even up the statistics quietly or would we get out and brag about our dark deeds without any consideration for the feelings of the poor victims or their friends and relatives?

THE KISS.

(By Sara Teasdale, in Harper's Magazine.)

Before you kissed me only winds of heaven
Had kissed me, and the tenderness of rain—
Now you have come, how can I care for kisses
Like theirs again?

I sought the sea, she sent her winds to meet me,
They surged about me singing of the south:
I turned my head away to keep still holy
Your kiss upon my mouth.

And swift sweet rains of shining April weather
Found not my lips where living kisses are;
I bowed my head lest they put out my glory
As rain puts out a star.

I am my love's and he is mine forever,
Sealed with a seal and safe forevermore—
Think you that I could let a beggar enter
Where a king stood before?

AN OCCUPATION FOR HIM.

(From The Minneapolis Journal.)

Congressman Hobson will retire to private life next month. He might run over to Japan and see what is going on there.

The Holland Letter

In years when our foreign trade was normal the statisticians and experts were fond of estimating the money value of our cotton harvest and then comparing the figures with their estimates of the money value of the hay harvested in the same year. It frequently happened that the difference was only a few thousand dollars in an aggregate of five or six hundred millions. Sometimes hay was found to have brought a larger money return than cotton. Sometimes it was the other way. But it was commonly said that the money value of the hay crop of the United States and that of the cotton crop in any given year, or at least in recent years, was approximately the same.

The unfortunate complications occasioned by the European war which for a time prevented the export of cotton from the United States did not arise to interfere with the sales and delivery of hay to belligerent and neutral nations. Therefore, it will probably be found by the end of the present fiscal year that the money received by American farmers for hay is larger in amount than money received by the cotton planters. The export of hay, both from the United States and Canada, has passed almost unnoticed. Public interest was centered in the exports of wheat and other food products. It was forgotten that France and England were buying many thousand horses in the United States and were also utilizing all the horses that could be spared from the industries of France and Great Britain. Horses and cattle must be fed. There have been recent intimations from Germany that forage for domestic purposes, not for the army, should be admitted into Germany.

Yesterday there was placed upon vessels at the port of New York for shipment, principally to Italy and in lesser amounts to France and England, a great quantity of compressed hay. The shipment entailed the entire capacities of three steamers. This is only one of many shipments and there is to be continuous export of hay until the war closes.

Italy at the present time is purchasing hay even in larger amounts than are England and France. So far as England is concerned, this may be due to the fact that Canada is exporting hay in enormous quantities to England. In well-informed commercial circles in this city the report, well authenticated, has prevailed for some days that one Canadian firm alone is under contract to ship as soon as possible forty thouhands tons of hay to England. If one firm enters into a contract of this kind the inference is strong that others must be engaged in the shipment of hay from Canada to England. The hay shipped to Canada will cost, including freight and insurance charges, about $30 a ton.

A Large Contract.

One New York firm whose occupation is dealing in produce entered into contract some weeks ago to furnish a constant supply of hay sufficient to feed 200,000 horses. The contract makes it necessary to ship as frequently as possible. Modern processes in baling hay into greatly compressed bales facilitates the movement of hay in large quantities. For this hay payments are promptly made. This morning a draft for approximately $50,000 was paid by the representatives of one of the nations which are buying hay in the United States, and this is only one of the many payments. American hay costs here about $24 per ton. The cost to the importers will average about $30 a ton, and as the tonnage may amount to a million some idea can be obtained of the money value of these exports provided the war be continued throughout this calendar year.

Twice before has the United States furnished large amounts of hay to belligerent nations. England contracted at the time of the Boer war for many thousand tons of hay. At that time the American commission merchants found it expedient to ship, for the most part, Canadian hay. That was because of tariff exactions at that time. They bought thousands of tons of Canadian hay, shipped it from Canada to New York or Boston in bond and then reshipped it to South Africa. So, also, at the time of the war between Japan and Russia, Japan placed heavy orders in the United States for hay and as Japan had established in New York a credit of many millions these purchases were paid for on the spot.

The extraordinary demand which comes from Italy for hay leads to a good deal of guessing as to the ultimate destination of the commodity. Of course, it makes no difference to the commission merchants where the hay goes. They are paid promptly and they are well insured. But naturally there is much conjecture respecting Italy's purpose in making these purchases. Some are inclined to think that they show the magnitude of Italy's war preparations. This inference is in part justified by the fact that Italy has bought many horses in the United States. There is, however, a strong suspicion that some part of this American hay will be eaten by horses in Austria and in Germany.

These exports tend to show how varied and far-reaching are many of the contracts which have been made by belligenert and neutral nations with manufacturers and with commission houses in the United States.

The Harvests of Next Summer.

If climate proves favorable, the American grain harvest, especially of wheat, of next summer and early fall, should be the largest ever garnered. One of the bits of information which have come to the financial district from the wheat belts of the west is constantly referred to with expressions of gratification. The report is generally credited as accurate that the farmers have now winter wheat upon four million acres more than were ever before devoted to that kind of crop. So also reports come that the weather on the whole has been especially favorable for winter wheat. If the climate is benign throughout the late spring and early summer the harvest of winter wheat should exceed the phenomenal harvest of last summer and the quality should be as good as that of the winter wheat of last year. An addition of four million bushels of winter wheat acreage should add about sixty million bushels, basing the estimate upon the average production for recent years, to the wheat supply, that is to say, sixty million bushels in excess of the best record heretofore made. With weather conditions all that is hoped for, there should be a correspondingly large increase in the acreage devoted to spring wheat.

A statement made by an excellent authority who has recently spent some months in Russia and who is familiar with conditions in that empire may, if it be accurate, somewhat affect the export of wheat next fall. This authority states that if the Dardanelles be opened to Russian vessels there will flow into Europe an amount of grain simply stupendous. He estimates that food products are now awaiting export from southern Russia of the money value of considerably in excess of $500,000,000. Our own grain markets must have had some intimation of this, for in no other way can the recent decline for the quotations of wheat be explained.

FRED LINE URGES BETTER SCHOOLS

Atlanta Has No Moral Right to Let Her Normal School Go Begging for Support, Says Universalist Pastor.

The necessity of improving Atlanta's educational system was urged yesterday morning in a strong sermon delivered by Rev. Fred A. Line, pastor of the Universalist church.

Speaking on the subject, "The Process of Salvation," and from the text, Psalms, 1:6 John, 6:12, he said:

"Atlanta has no moral right to let its normal training school go begging for support. You owe it to the boys and girls of your city, to the citizens of tomorrow, that the teachers who have in charge the training of their minds and lives be fully equipped for this all-important work. You owe it to yourselves, to the dreamed of greater Atlanta of tomorrow, that you use all your influence and do all in your power to increase the efficiency of the public school system in this great city, for your happiness and your prosperity will be determined in no small measure by your attitude toward this vital problem.

City's Greatest Asset.

"Good school buildings, well equipped, sufficient in size and number to take care of the children of school age; well-trained, well-paid teachers; a community sentiment which makes for progressive measures and methods in the conduct of a city's schools, and which give birth to numerous out-branching educational influences and movements —these things constitute the greatest asset any city can have. The good people of progressive Atlanta appreciate this fact and will not be found wanting as conservationists in the solving of this most pressing problem.

"But after all, the great business of life is the business of soul conservation, the business of helping men to find themselves as a part of the larger life. What does it mean to save your soul? It means to help and to save others. The process is reactionary. It means to give of yourself in the fulfillment of the great ideals. It means to make yourself a part of the common life. Are you saved? someone will ask. Of course you are not. Nor will you be as the result of any one moment's or hour's response to the emotional appeal of an evangelist. Nor will you be as the result of professing religion, or joining the church or avowing your allegiance to the standards of the Christ. You will simply be in the process of salvation. Behind the choir at the front of the Peachtree tabernacle this motto greets the eye of the worshipper, 'Saved for Service.' It is based upon a wrong conception of salvation. It implies that salvation is something mysterious, something apart from life. To harmonize with the teaching of Christ and the teaching of human experience it should read, 'Saved by Service.' There is no other way of salvation.

How, Not Where.

"It is not a question of where you are going to spend eternity. I am not interested as to where you are going to spend eternity. Location is immaterial. The question is, 'How are you spending eternity?'"

Are you using yourself in the service of the highest? Are you engaged in the great and glorious work of character building? Are you building the kingdom here and now? The gospel medicine man who, with tears in his voice, gives forth the veiled threat that the next moment you may be in eternity gets nowhere as a religious leader. His message means nothing. But if he bring home to your minds and hearts the consciousness of the eternal present with its opportunities and responsibilities, and the fact that all the issues of life and death are crowded into this present moment—that you must live today if you would find and enjoy heaven; and if he doles out to you doses of love's medicine to be taken from the cup of service day by day—then his message and his labor are worth while.

ASA CANDLER TO MAKE ADDRESS ON "ATLANTA"

"Atlanta" will be the subject of Asa G. Candler, Sr., president of the Central Bank and Trust corporation, in an address at the Ad Men's luncheon to be held in the Winecoff hotel Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

On account of his long activity in the financial and commercial circles of Atlanta, there are few men better acquainted with the city's conditions and better informed on her history. Great interest is being expressed in the talk of Mr. Candler, as he will follow J. R. Atkinson, the new dean of St. Philip's cathedral, who recently spoke before the Ad Men on a similar subject.

Plates will be laid for business men not members of the Ad Men's club who may wish to attend. They are requested to notify the secretary, J. H. Atchison.

NEGRO WOMAN IS SHOT BY HUSBAND; MAY DIE

Hartwell, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—Bill Cornog, the colored manager of a pressing club, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife early this morning at his home in the colored section. It is reported that Cornog went home early this morning under the influence of liquor and fired several shots at his wife. Two of the shots lodged in the woman's stomach and will, in all probability, cause death. An operation was performed in hope of saving her life. Cornog has been lodged in jail.

IT WAS COLD AND WINDY, BUT THERE WAS NO RAIN

SUNDAY—A cold, windy day, filled with ominous threats of rain or snow or sleet, but productive of nothing but chills.

The only difference between Sunday and the same day of a week ago was that yesterday was dry, both externally and internally. The previous Sunday it poured, while this Sunday it threatened.

The lid stayed on the clubs as tight as the week before, and there was not even a ray of sunshine to cheer the downcast tippler who wouldst look to the elements for consolation.

The prospect for today is fair weather, cold, but with the likelihood of moderation in temperature.

"Aunt Susie" Is Laid to Rest After Long and Useful Life

MRS. WILLIAM KING.

The funeral of Mrs. William King, better known as "Aunt Susie," through her long connection with The Tri-Weekly Constitution, was held Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist church. The Rev. Wilbur F. Glenn officiated, assisted by Rev. H. M. DuBose. The church was crowded with friends and admirers.

Preceding his brief personal tribute to the Christian life of the deceased, the Rev. Glenn read the ninetieth Psalm, and the fifteenth chapter of I. Corinthians was read by Dr. DuBose.

"To live a Christian life well," said Dr. Glenn, "is a great thing, and when the Creator has endowed us with such characteristics we should consider them bonds binding us to the living God. So, therefore, there is no kingdom known in this life big enough for us to grow in. It is in the life beyond to which Mrs. King has gone that we may live after the order of the great Divine Father.

"The deceased was reared in an atmosphere of education and refinement, and she naturally became an example of this life of culture in her many years of personal service in the community here and in the wide range of her literary work. Through the channels of her many writings Mrs. King became known to many who never saw her face and was a source of culture, comfort and help to all who read after her.

"In her relations with her church she was a force in every department of Christian work, particularly looking after those needing help and sympathy. Her vast energy and varied attainments were unstintingly given to every noble cause. There were few enterprises tending to social uplift that did not receive the impetus of her enthusiasm. Although Mrs. King was naturally a strong worker and a useful woman, she was always assisted by her husband, who was united with her in loving companionship of 64 years."

The quartet, composed of Miss Bannie Hood, Mrs. M. C. Jernigan, W. F. Clower and C. B. Waite, accompanied by the organist, Miss Mamie Lee Bearden, sang at intervals during the simple service, "Will There Be Any Stars in My Crown," "Crowned by Grace," "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light."

Interment took place in West View cemetery.

The pallbearers were R. A. Hemphill, A. C. Wooley, Clark Howell, H. E. W. Palmer, Charles Beardsley, R. C. Congdon and J. P. Davenport.

AT THE THEATERS

Miss Billie Burke.

(At the Atlanta.)

Tonight Miss Billie Burke will open her engagement of three nights and a Wednesday matinee at the Atlanta in her best comedy, "Jerry." In this play Miss Burke has a role which gives her full opportunity to exercise all the notable charms of her acting in a manner which is most pleasing. Miss Burke is the most bewitching woman on the stage today and never was she more charming and "cute" than in "Jerry." It is a comedy made particularly for her and is a delight from beginning to end. Her supporting company is all that could be demanded by the most exacting and she has been received with utmost enthusiasm on her present tour. She wears numerous fetching gowns in the play, changing every few minutes and appearing in various costumes from pajamas to evening gowns.

Honey Boy Minstrels.

(At the Atlanta.)

This morning at 9 o'clock seats will be placed on sale at the Atlanta for the engagement of the Evans Honey Boy Minstrels, who come for a stay of three nights and matinee, beginning Thursday. While Mr. Evans will be missed, the show is one of the brightest and best minstrels ever organized and is given in a manner which is difficult to equal. The handiwork of the Honey Boy is in evidence from opening to conclusion, he having written the sketches, songs and produced the offering in every way. All the oldtime favorites who have been with Evans are in the show with the addition of numerous other singers and dancers and as the papers have been saying for some weeks, "there will be no disappointment in the show as it is presented even without the Honey Boy." A matinee is for Saturday.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

A special bill of features will be the attraction this week at the Forsyth. Of course the usual heavy advance sale has been recorded, meaning that the theater is going to be crowded as usual. The headliner is the famous Frank Lalor, principal comedian of "The Pink Lady," "Coming Thro' the Rye," "Papa's Darling," and other musical comedy hits. Frank (Sliver) Oakley, the famous Barnum & Bailey clown, who was for a long time one of the star features of the New York Hippodrome, will be another of the features. Dr. Carl Herman, the electrical master, and one of showland's greatest laugh-producers, will be another of the great features on the bill. Willie Weston, always popular here because of his ability as a character singer. Ruby Raymond and Fred Heider in a cute vaudeville specialty; Misses Leighliter and Jordon in songs and piano, and Myrtle and Jimmie Dunedin, the Australian artists, make up the bill.

Submarine Pictures.

(At the Lyric.)

The Universal Film company, by arrangement with Jake Wells, will present the brilliant and astonishing Williamson submarine motion pictures, daily matinee at 3 p. m. and evenings at 8:30 p. m. all this week at the Lyric. All seats are reserved and the price of the best seats for either exhibition is 25 cents. There has never been anything more wonderful in the history of motion pictures than this famous series of submarine scenes. The Williamson patent, which enables a cameraman to go to the bottom of the sea, and take pictures of under the water life, is as great a gift to the world as wireless or the phonograph. By a specially-constructed tube, attached to a sea-going vessel, an operator can be lowered from shipside to the very bottom of the sea and there take any picture he cares to. A special expedition was fitted up to get this series of pictures and they are as amusing, exciting and sensational as they are truly educational.

Moving Pictures.

(At the Grand.)

The Grand starts its fifteenth successful week as a "movie" theater today, with a program for the week that will in all probability smash the attendance records of the theater. The program is the sort New York picture places get 25 cents a seat to view, but the Grand price continues 5 cents for the best seat. 11 o'clock in the morning until lights out at night. For Monday and Tuesday, William Parnum will star in "A Gilded Fool," a five-reel feature that will be a hit. Mary Pickford in "Friends" will entertain and the Pathe comedy will amuse. Wednesday and Thursday will bring the interesting suffrage picture, "Your Girl and Mine," a World film feature, and Mary Pickford will be seen in "Narrow Roads." on Friday and Saturday the Alliance release, "When Fate Leads Trump." Mary Pickford, in "Season of Buds," and a Pathe comedy will demand attention.

FRANK LALOR COMING FOR WEEK AT FORSYTH

Do You Remember "Donegal," "Mulvaree" and "I Think It Must Be Love"?

This week's billboards carry a puzzling Forsyth announcement. In the place on the posters generally used to display the name of the headline act there are, nicely arranged, five interrogation marks. Then follow the names of six acts that are to be on the program.

The puzzling interrogation marks mean that when the order for printing was placed Hugh Cardoza did not know the name of his headliner. There were a number on the string. Tom Lewis, the Cohan & Harris comedian who had been booked, had his entire route switched to start on the Pacific coast, and was lost to the Forsyth. Then the Keith offices commenced to submit names. Name after name came burning over the wires. No act was accepted until late Saturday. Frank Lalor was finally chosen to top the bill of features.

This famous musical comedy star, with a supporting company of two men and two women in a brisk comedy entitled "Back to Earth," promises to be about the liveliest and most pleasing vaudeville novelty that the Forsyth has offered.

Frank Lalor will be pleasantly recalled as the stars of the original presentations of "Coming Thro' the Rye," "Iole," "The Pink Lady," "Papa's Darling" and other hits.

Next week's headliner will be Adelaide and Hughes, the famous dancers who held interest in New York for more than eight months.

POEMS OF NEGRO POET COME FROM THE PRESS

There has just come from the press of A. B. Caldwell, publishers, a small book of poems by the Rev. Sterling M. Means, pastor of the Colored Methodist Episcopal church, of Rome.

As the subject, "The Deserted Cabin and Other Poems," would indicate, the purpose of the author is to reflect that peculiar sentiment that existed between the master and the slave. However, there are several selections dealing with modern themes, such as the contemplations of Teddy at the temple of Rameses and a thrust at Governor Blease.

In introducing this book to the public, the Rev. Means says:

"If there is anything in the relentless past that is forever sacred to the memory of the folks of Dixie, it is the 'old plantation,' and the environments that surrounded those years of sweat and sorrow carried with them some fondness as well as regret. The devotion of the slaves to their masters whose homes were left unguarded in the early sixties, when fathers, husbands and sons went to the 'bloody front,' will hardly be forgotten. The negro slaves remained loyal to their masters' cause and stood as sentinels to thousands of southern homes and evidenced a fidelity that is unequaled in history. Should the negro and the southern white man with the better angels of their nature look back to the devotion and kind relation that existed between their forefathers, 'mob violence' would die, and their problems would vanish forever; they would form a peace pact greater than the triple alliance or triple entente, not backed by armaments and steel-clad dreadnaughts, but by the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God, who proclaimed 'peace on earth and good will to all men.'"

M'INTOSH TO DO HONOR TO CAPTAIN TRIPLETT

Thomasville, Ga., March 7.—(Special.) Editor Henry McIntosh, of The Albany Herald, has been asked to make the address at the unveiling of the monument to Captain John Triplett, which will take place here on March 22. Mr. McIntosh was a warm friend of Captain Triplett and one of the group of editors of which A. P. Perham, of Waycross; Dick Grubb, of Darien, and several others were members with Captain Triplett, and which did so much to bring south Georgia to the fore.

FARMER IS SLAIN; WIFE ATTACKED

Emmett Andrews Is Jailed Following Killing of Enas Phillips Near Colquitt, Ga. Andrews' Brother Sought.

Colquitt, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—Emmett Andrews, a young white man, is in jail here following the killing last night of Enas Phillips, a merchant and farmer, and the commission of a grave crime against his wife.

Deputy Sheriff Andrews arrested Emmett Andrews, who remained on the scene until the officer's arrival, but a brother of Andrews, also charged with the crime, is being sought by the police.

Phillips, about 55 years of age, had long been a respected citizen of Milton county. The two Andrews boys came here only a short time ago from Rowena, in Early county.

Phillips, as reported by his wife, was in his store, eight miles from here, when the two young men came in and commenced shooting him. Phillips fell dead behind the counter. The boys then went into his residence and reported to Phillips' wife what they had done.

Coroner J. T. Knight held an inquest this morning and it is said that Mrs. Phillips testified before the coroner's jury that both of the Andrews boys committed a crime against her soon after they had killed her husband. It is also said that the Andrews were drinking.

GLOOM OF TRAGEDY WRAPS BRUNSWICK

ried the coffin bearing the remains from his residence to the cemetery.

The funeral of George W. Asbell took place at 3 o'clock this afternoon, his remains being interred in Palmetto cemetery.

The body of L. C. Padgett was forwarded to his former home some distance from the city for interment.

Funeral of Colonel Dunwoody.

Pending the arrival of a brother from Colorado, arrangements for the funeral of Colonel H. J. Dunwoody were not completed tonight. The interment, however, will probably be tomorrow afternoon. Among the kinsmen who arrived today to attend Mr. Dunwoody's funeral were Justice Samuel C. Atkinson, of the Georgia supreme court, and Hon. Spencer R. Atkinson, member of the house from Fulton county; uncles of the deceased, Reuben Arnold and Hollis Randolph, of Atlanta; brothers-in-law and others.

The body of Monroe Phillips, author of the city's terrible tragedy, will be buried here tomorrow afternoon. It was intended to forward the body to Reids, near Macon, but the arrangements were changed today.

The only new development in the tragedy today of interest was the fact that an examination of Phillips' body showed that although the load of buckshot from the gun of E. C. Butts brought him to the floor in Branch's drug store as he was preparing to reload his gun and fire, that he also was struck by three or four .32-caliber pistol balls. As all police officers firing at him were shooting .38-caliber pistols, it was not known at first who had fired upon him with the .32 revolver.

Ralph Minehan, a young real estate dealer, who had seen Phillips shoot down three men, had rushed to a nearby hardware store, secured a revolver and returned to the drug store, entering by a side door, and fired upon the blood-crazed man just a few seconds before Mr. Butts sent him down with a load of buckshot.

Atlantan in Fusillade.

Blood flowing from a wound in the cheek, inflicted by a flying shot from the gun of the maniacal author of Brunswick's revolting tragedy, S. A. Ellard, division special agent of the Southern railway, with offices in Atlanta, stood behind the barricade of a post on the scene of the conflict and joined in the fusillade that slew the madman.

Ellard, in Brunswick on business, had just emerged from the barber shop on Newcastle street, when he heard the sound of the first gunshot in the Dunwoody office upstairs. As he gazed upward, seeking to locate its source, he heard other shots, and presently saw the figure of Phillips emerge from the stairway to the sidewalk.

The Atlanta man was standing in the crowd that had gathered, and into which McDonald poured the contents of his gun, killing and wounding innocent bystanders. A number of buckshot lodged in Ellard's face. While Phillips backed down the street, loading and firing his gun, Ellard ducked behind a telephone post, whipped out his revolver and joined in the fusillade that was being rained upon the madman.

The immediate cause of the shooting, it appears, though Phillips had planned it sooner or later, arose over a telephone conversation between Col. Dunwoody and Mrs. Phillips early yesterday morning. Mr. Dunwoody represented clients who had attached the proceeds from the sale of a lighter several days ago, and Mrs. Phillips called him over the phone to endeavor to settle the matter.

Mrs. Phillips later told her husband that Mr. Dunwoody had "insulted her by saying you and your husband are trying to beat these people out of this money." This seems to have enraged Phillips and, securing his shotgun and at least 50 cartridges, he started out to slay all whom he claimed had wronged him in the past. Among these were Albert Fendig, prominent real estate dealer and banker; A. M. Way, who was badly injured; R. E. Briesenick and others.

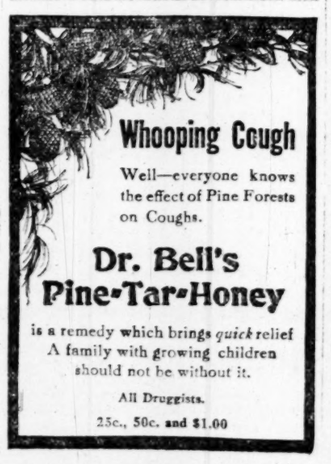

Hundreds of Brunswick citizens gathered around the scene of the terrible tragedy today.

In almost every building for two blocks signs of Phillips' shooting was in evidence, buckshot landing here and there in show windows, in door fronts and in telegraph poles, behind which many people sought safety.

McDonald Has Relatives Here.

Ernest McDonald, of 1000 Albemarle street, Brunswick, was the sixth victim of Monroe Phillips' gun, Mr. McDonald dying at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. McDonald was 31 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children. He also leaves four brothers and one sister. He was in the meat packing business with his father, William A. McDonald, and had a number of relatives in Atlanta. Among them are his uncles, James D. McDonald, of the superior court; Frank I. McDonald and Edward D. McDonald, wholesale fruit and produce dealers; his aunts, Mrs. Etta M. Fraser, of 480 North Jackson street; Mrs. Anna A. Parkhurst, of 1 Dickson place, and their families.

Ernest McDonald was passing along the street when Phillips began his shooting, and he was shot three times. He was hurried to his home and given medical attention. Mr. McDonald had only recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia a couple of weeks, and was still convalescing, having not yet returned to his business. Edward D. McDonald, wholesale fruit and produce dealer of 43 South Broad street, was in Savannah on business connected with the Travelers' Protective association, and hurried to Brunswick, arriving there about an hour before his nephew died. Ernest McDonald is to be buried Monday in Brunswick.

REFORMS PLANNED IN THE MANAGEMENT OF ATHLETIC CLUB

The Atlanta Athletic club members are planning sweeping reforms in its management, and, tonight, a meeting of the members will be held to ratify certain constitutional changes.

The meeting is the outgrowth of a recent meeting of the club at which proposals of some of the directors to separate the city club and the East Lake Country club into two organizations were flatly turned down by the majority of the members, after the most enthusiastic gathering in the history of the Athletic club.

This month's issue of the club "Bulletin" indorses Asa G. Candler, Jr., for president of the club. It was Mr. Candler who proposed at the last meeting to finance the club through its present financial difficulties, provided the directorship would be re-organized, and a governing board of five substituted—three of the five to be elected by the membership, one of the three to be president, and two to be named by the three elected. Mr. Candler further stipulated that these five men should have active charge of the club.

The proposed changes in the constitution take recognizance of a loan agreement with Asa G. Candler, Sr., who is holder of most of the club's outstanding bonds. Mr. Candler's trustee, Forrest Adair, shall have the power of selecting one of the two directors not elected by the membership, according to the proposed changes.

DR. CHAPMAN TALKS TO COLORED PEOPLE

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman addressed a large audience of colored people at the First Congregational church, colored, yesterday afternoon. The service was preceded by a service of song by the regular chorus of fifty voices of the church. Mr. Alexander led the audience in singing a number of revival hymns. Mr. Brown sang, "Shall I Go Empty Handed."

Dr. Chapman preached on the incident of Christ and Zacchaeus, stressing the importance of consecration and conversion. At the close of his strong and practical appeal quite a number stood in signification of their intention of leading better lives, and a large number at the request of the evangelist took a stand for Christ for the first time.

Preaches on Needs of Home.

"Christ ascended near Bethany that He might show that the home is that place on earth most like heaven," said Rev. H. H. Proctor at the First Congregational church, colored, yesterday morning in his sermon on "Christ in the Family Circle." "What Christ did for that home in Bethany he can do for every home in Atlanta," he continued. "Consider how he brought each member of the family up to His best. We see this in Mary who, in the breaking of the alabaster box, did what she could. When Christ gets a grip on the family each member is brought up to his very best in the home, the church, the school, everywhere. He also brings comfort. There is no home without its sorrow. Jesus alone can heal the sorrows of the family."

Farmers of Coffee Appeal For Rural Credits System

Douglas, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—Hon. J. J. Brown, president of the State Farmers' union, after a very instructive address on Saturday to a large company of farmers present, organized the locals, 17 in number, into a county union. Since January 22 fifteen locals have been formed, evincing a growing interest, not confined to this vicinity, for appeals are coming from many sections of the state for organizers to visit them. To date, Laurens county leads, with nineteen unions.

Mr. Brown's speech gave emphasis to the following needs of the farmer: Rural credits, diversified farming and marketing crops. It was stated that 66 per cent of mortgaged farms are controlled by foreign loan associations, whose rates of interest were exorbitant. For lack of proper marketing facilities, Coffee county's sweet potatoes, loaded here at 40 cents per bushel, sold in Atlanta for 40 cents a peck. A result from lack of organized marketing methods.

The county union passed resolutions enthusiastically indorsing President Brown's speech, and a state-wide appeal will be made to Georgia's representatives in congress to have the federal government establish a system of rural credits.

Not only in this county, but throughout south Georgia, the farmers' union will diversify crops and cut cotton acreage 33 per cent. Fertilizers will be purchased this year on the co-operative plan, in large shipments, thereby saving from $1 to $4 on the ton.

INSURANCE CLAIM SUIT IS SETTLED AFTER CONFERENCE

In the superior court Saturday the case of Anna M. Tate, by guardian, against the United States Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit association was entered "settled." The case grew out of the death of George W. Tate, who carried a policy in the association, the certificate being payable to Amelia Swanson Gaines, with whom he boarded. There was an issue between her and the guardian of Anna M. Tate, wife of George W. Tate, as to the payment of the policy, it being claimed under the Georgia laws the association could issue policies only to relatives. Anna M. Tate is now in the state sanitarium at Milledgeville. Anderson & Rountree, attorneys for the insurance association, declined to pay the policy until the issue was adjusted. The rival claimant's attorneys came to terms Saturday and the association paid the policy in full. Attorney Burton Smith represented the guardian of Anna M. Tate and McDaniel & Black represented Amelia Swanson Gaines.

DR. P. F. BAHNSEN'S AUTO STOLEN AT AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., March 7.—(Special.) Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian, was the victim of automobile thieves last night. Leaving their car under the glare of an electric light, Dr. Bahnsen and wife attended the theater. They emerged to find their car missing. Police can find no trace of the Bahnsen automobile, which bore a 1915 license tag, number 42.

Bernhardt Recovering.

Bordeaux, March 7.—(Via Paris.)—A bulletin issued today by Dr. Denuce, attending Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, whose right leg was amputated recently, says Mme. Bernhardt's condition continues satisfactory.

WOMAN WEAK AND NERVOUS

Finds Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I suffered with female troubles from the time I came into womanhood until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would have pains if I overworked or lifted anything heavy, and I would be so weak and nervous and in so much misery that I would be prostrated. A friend told me what your medicine had done for her and I tried it. It made me strong and healthy and our home is now happy with a baby boy. I am very glad that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and do all I can to recommend it."—Mrs. A. B. Boscamp, 504 E. Howard Street, Creston, Iowa.

Tons of Roots and Herbs

are used annually in the manufacture of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is known from ocean to ocean as the standard remedy for female ills.

For forty years this famous root and herb medicine has been pre-eminently successful in controlling the diseases of women. Merit alone could have stood this test of time.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

TRADE TO BE SOUGHT IN SOUTH AMERICA

President Wilson Names Date for Pan-American Financial Conference — McAdoo on Objects of Conference.

Washington, March 7.—President Wilson has selected Monday, May 10, as the date for the Pan-American financial conference here at which the ministers of finance and the leading bankers of Central and South American countries will meet financiers and treasury officials of the United States to discuss the establishment of more satisfactory financial and commercial relations between the nations of the western hemisphere.

In a statement announcing the date tonight Secretary McAdoo said all the foreign governments had responded favorably when approached informally regarding the conference and that formal invitations would be sent them immediately. Congress authorized the conference and appropriated $50,000 for expenses.

Bankers to Be Invited.

"The secretary of the treasury," said Mr. McAdoo, "is given authority to invite, in his discretion, representative American bankers to participate in the conference. This discretion will be exercised so as to secure the attendance of as large a number as practicable of our representative financiers in order that a thorough and comprehensive discussion may be had of existing financial conditions throughout the western hemisphere and of the measures that should be adopted to strengthen financial and trade relations between the United States and our Central and South American neighbors. A suitable program will be carefully studied and announced in due time.

"The commercial relations between the United States and Central and South America will also be considered as an essential part of the financial discussion. The secretary of commerce will be asked to attend the conference and also the members of the federal reserve board. The secretary of state and all other members of the cabinet will be asked to participate in the deliberations. A similar invitation will be extended to the diplomatic representatives of the various Central and South American countries accredited to Washington, and to Mr. John Barrett, director of the Pan-American union.

The Only Disappointment.

"The only disappointment in connection with this conference arises out of the failure of the shipping bill, a measure which had particularly in view the establishment of suitable steamship facilities to leading South American countries. The full benefit of the forthcoming financial conference cannot be realized until the necessary ocean transportation facilities are provided, but the conference will do a vast amount of good anyway and will doubtless demonstrate more clearly than ever the necessity for the creation of a merchant marine under the American flag.

"One of the things which the federal reserve act seeks to accomplish is the extension of American banking facilities to foreign countries. Not only are national banks authorized by that act to open branches in other countries, but the federal reserve banks themselves are permitted to establish agencies outside of the United States. At the coming conference these features will be discussed and an effort will be made to discover the best means of enabling our banks to extend their operations in Central and South American countries.

"It is a significant fact that our exports to South America reached the lowest point for the year 1914 in the months of October, November and December, when they were reduced to less than one-half of those for the same months in 1913. This decline is, in a great measure, due to the scarcity of ships and the exorbitant rates of freight now being charged."

BETTER UNDERSTANDING SOUGHT WITH JAPAN

New York, March 7.—The work of promoting a better understanding between the people of Japan and the United States which Shailer Mathews, president of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and the Rev. Sidney L. Gulick have been doing in Japan will be continued in this country by Dr. Gulick when he returns late this month, Dr. Charles S. McFarland, general secretary of the council, announced tonight.

Dr. Gulick, who for twenty-six years was a missionary in Japan, will visit various cities of the United States to make clear the meaning of Japanese progress, ideals and ambitions.

"Churches in the federal council believe," said Dr. McFarland, "that the principles of the Christian gospel are as applicable to international relations as to national morals, and if this were not the case there would be little or no use in continuing to send Christian missionaries to other parts of the world."

REV. ROBERT R. NORMAN DIES AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—Rev. Robert Reese Norman, for twenty years a member of the South Georgia conference, died at the home of his son here this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Norman had spent several months in Washington. He was 62 years old and is survived by his wife and five children. Funeral and interment will occur Monday afternoon in Washington from the Methodist church.

MRS. CHARLES D. TONEY IS DEAD AT FAIRBURN

Fairburn, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—Mrs. Charles D. Toney, wife of the editor of The Campbell News, died of pneumonia at the family residence this afternoon. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Ethel, aged 11; two sons, Carlton and Charles D., Jr.; by her sister, Miss May Parker, and her father, of Quitman, Ga.

96 CORPSES ARE TAKEN FROM LAYLAND MINES

Hinton, W. Va., March 7.—The recovery of 11 bodies today brought the death toll of the Layland mines to 96. It is estimated 20 more dead are buried beneath slate falls and debris.

All of the 47 men rescued yesterday after having lived four days and four nights without food and drink were reported to be in good physical condition and all are expected to recover.

Joy and sadness intermingled today in the miners' homes on the side of Quinnimont mountain. Here a husband, brother or son had returned after all hope had been given up. Nearby a wife, sister or mother mourned.

A coroner's jury was empanelled at Thurmond late today and several bodies were viewed, but a full inquisition into the disaster will not begin until all bodies have been recovered.

General G. S. Anderson Dead.

New York, March 7.—Brigadier General George Smith Anderson, U. S. A., retired, died here today at the age of 65. He was graduated from the United State Military academy in 1871 and entered the cavalry. He served in the Philippines and was for two years, from 1899 to 1901, colonel of volunteers. He was made a brigadier in 1911. General Anderson was retired in 1912.

REFORM IN CLUBS STRONGLY URGED

representative, were in existence before these complications were upon you; and that many of your representative and high-minded business men have for years had membership in these clubs. However, I do not seek to excuse them for any evasion or violation of the law, and the fact that rich men form the membership of these clubs is in no way an excuse for the violation of the law, if it be violated, and if I were striking a blow, I think I should strike a heavier blow against all such clubs, because their membership is composed so largely of strong-minded men who must at heart desire only the best interests of the city.

"The locker clubs in your city, I am told, are, most of them, if not all of them, operated in open violation of the law. I have been told by some men who say they know because they have had membership in these clubs that some of them are owned by individuals. As a matter of fact it is true, I believe, that a member of a club has a right legally to keep in his locker alcoholic drinks for his personal use. He has no right to sell these drinks to another, or to allow them to be sold, and the following decision by the court of appeals of Georgia January 20, 1914, proves this.

"What I read now is the action of the court of appeals:

"'All who procure, counsel, command, aid, or abet the commission of a misdemeanor are regarded by the law as principal offenders and may be indicted as such.' The manager of a social club, who orders intoxicating liquors for the use of its members, and who either directly or indirectly procures, counsels, commands, aids, or abets in the making of a sale of such liquors, is guilty as principal. This is true even though such manager may not have been present when the particular sale was made, nor had knowledge of such sale until after it was consummated.

"'Where a number of persons each contribute money to an agent, who purchases a stock of intoxicating liquor and thereafter dispenses, upon the order of one such persons, a quantity of liquor in exchange for a book of coupons, which had been purchased, either by such person or by the person to whom the liquor was delivered, the transaction is a sale in violation of the prohibition law, notwithstanding the persons for whose benefit the liquor was purchased composed a bona fide club organized for social and intellectual welfare, and the use of the liquor was only an incident to the main purpose of the club, and although no profit was made on the sale. And this is true whether the persons have become incorporated as a social club or whether they constitute a voluntary association of persons for mutual pleasure and benefit.'

"Therefore I have no hesitation in saying that where liquor is sold in clubs, or exchanged for coupons, there is an open violation of the law, or if this is too strong for some of you, there is a clear evasion of the law, which is quite as wicked. Now, this being true I am absolutely sure that to evade the law, as some of you are doing, is to injure your whole city. It lowers the moral temperature, it hinders the proper development of character, it is a menace to the boys and young men of the community, it is an evil influence working against our homes, and it is a blot and a blight upon all church life, it is heartbreaking to the ministers, hinders their work, and makes success for them impossible. I think if I were a pastor of some churches in Atlanta the conditions existing today in your city would kill me.

His Three Remedies.

"There are three things that I think could be done and should be done.

"The first is this, that every club of every sort in the city of Atlanta, should be compelled to obey the law in its strictest letter. This is only fair and just. If I evaded the laws of your city in Atlanta you would have scant respect for me, and if I tried to preach to you, you would call me a hypocrite, and you would have a right to do so.

"Second—An appeal should be made by the united forces of Atlanta to your legislature soon to be in session to repeal every law which permits the sale of near-beer, and the sooner this is done the better it will be for your city. The sale of beer is an open violation of the laws and has been so declared by your courts.

"Third—I believe that every Christian man who now holds his membership in a club in Atlanta should use his influence to see that the law should be strictly observed in the club of which he is a member, and that if the law permits the placing of liquor in lockers that under no circumstances should it be exposed for sale or exchange in the clubs of which these Christian men are members. I believe that the Christian men of Atlanta could settle this question speedily. If the clubs will not operate according to the law, then there is but one thing for a Christian man to do, and that is to sever his connection with the club.

"Every Christian man in Atlanta ought now to face this issue, and if the club of which they are members persist in evading the law, then I think there is but one thing for a Christian man to do. He must either give up his club membership or resign from his church membership, for holding on to both he can but be disloyal to Christ, whether he intends to or not.

Take Action Speedily.

"I have been speaking to the Atlanta men today on the text: 'Be sure your sin will find you out,' and I stand before you now as a minister of the Gospel to say that unless action is taken speedily, and unless public sentiment is at once aroused so as to make the violation of the law, or the evasion of the law, impossible, the sin of it all will find you out in more ways than one.

"First—Your city will be injured, and it is one of the finest in the world. Atlanta's business men simply cannot afford for commercial reasons to allow conditions as they now exist to continue.

"Second—The church will be affected. I have never in my life been in a city where the prospects for a sweeping revival were finer, but there is something hindering us. There is a barrier ahead of us, and unless this barrier is removed, the measure of the blessing will be greatly lessened. I personally believe that the evasion or violation of the law of which I have spoken is this barrier.

"Third—Your homes will be affected. 'Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap,' and some respectable business man of today will open his eyes one of these days and realize that his son is a drunkard, and his daughter, too, and the harvest he will gather is the result of the seed which has been sown in these past months and years.

"With all the strength that God will give me I plead with you men in Atlanta to right this great wrong; to insist on the enforcement of law, and to stand by the men who stand for this great principle, and especially the chief of police. If you do not, then your sin will find you out. God pity you. God in Heaven pity you."

Preaches Strong Sermon.

One of the strongest and most impressive sermons preached by Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, since the Chapman-Alexander revival started, was delivered by him Sunday evening to the usual packed tabernacle.

Dr. Chapman's subject was, "This Year Thou Shalt Die," the words spoken by the Prophet Jeremiah, chapter 28, verse 16. From the beginning to the close the speaker kept the close attention of his audience. His sermon follows:

"This year thou shalt die." Jeremiah 28:16.

"This is a sentence of God against the false prophet, but it is at the same time a prophecy of some one who may hear the text as I speak it or read it as it appears upon the printed page. I draw the bow at a venture and the arrow will fly swiftly to its mark. I do not know where it will strike. God alone knows that, but it will strike somewhere.

"The average of human life was once fifty years; then it dropped to forty; today some have declared that it is almost, if not quite, thirty or under. When you remember that one-third of life is spent in childhood and one-third of it is spent in preparation for life in the way of school training or discipline, then we are shocked as we realize that we have ten years or less to get ready for eternity. This thing itself should set us thinking.

"I speak of three deaths. They are all mentioned in the Scriptures.

"'A name to live, and dead.' Revelation 3:1.

"'The wages of sin is death.' Romans 6:23.

"'The rich man also died.' Luke 16:22.

First Death.

"This is death to spiritual power. An old minister of other days used each year to have a service in which solemnly he would call the names of patriarchs, prophets, judges, and pausing solemnly after the names he would say, 'These men do not answer; they are dead.' Then he would speak the names of people who had lived in his own congregation or community, and with more solemnity when no response was heard he would say, 'These are all dead.' Then he would turn to his congregation and make his appeal on the basis of the fact that life was so uncertain and that death might be so near.

"I could today call the names of Christians, church officers and possibly ministers who once had spiritual power, but for reasons known to themselves and to God this power has departed, and spiritually they are almost if not quite dead. The same is true concerning the church. Some churches have all the machinery necessary. They have eloquent ministers; they may have full pews; their singing is of the highest order, but they have no power, and it may be for one or more of three reasons. It may be that the spirit of God is not given His proper leadership.

"I once heard Dr. A. J. Gordon, of Boston, say that they never permitted an action in his church without waiting until they were sure that the Holy Ghost would set his seal of approval upon what they were doing, of how few churches could this be said. It may be that there is no concern for the lost, and a church without this is an anomaly. Jesus was always concerned. He went seeking the lost everywhere. He stood upon the mountain weeping over Jerusalem; and a Christian unconcerned, or a church without a passion really represents the Master in the poorest fashion.

"Or it may be that individual church members are not right. Many a minister has lost his power through no fault of his own, but some man in the pews ties his hands. I have a friend whose evangelistic power was wonderful, but who suddenly found his ability to plead with men hindered. He did not know the reason. He sought the counsel of his friends and they were as confused as he. He was heartbroken, until one day one of the officers in his church was found dead by his own hand. For thirteen years he had been misappropriating the funds of the bank, and for thirteen years he had hindered the work of the church and crippled his ministry. When this man was removed, the old power came back again upon my friend.

The Second Death.

"I do not mean the second death that is spoken of in the Revelation, but rather the second death which I shall treat in this message. It is suggested by the text 'The wages of sin is death.' And we have the picture of the climax of the rejection of God. God has done all that He can do. He has spoken in the Old Testament. He has sent His Son to die according to the New Testament. He has given the Holy Spirit to plead since the day of Pentacost.

"You have done all that you could do against Him. You have trifled with His invitation. You have resisted His constant pleas. You have rejected the offer of His love. I am sure that there is still hope. You would not be listening to my message or reading this Word if there were not. If you have the least interest, the faintest desire, or the suggestion of a hope, I beseech you fan the spark into a flame.

Physical Death.

"If we are to die physically this year what will it all mean to us? For the saved it will mean victory; a translation to a better country; but for the unsaved despair, which is indescribable.

"A young boy came into our after meeting in Belfast and accepted Christ. I heard him tell his mother that it was all settled. A few days afterwards at his noon hour, after lunch he was playing the piano and singing the Gospel hymns. He called his mother to sing with him 'When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder I'll Be There,' and then hurried away to his business. There was an accident in the elevator and his body was crushed, and 20 minutes after his song he was carried home to his mother. Only God in Heaven knows when you may die. I do not make my strongest appeal for you to be a Christian because life is so uncertain and because death may be so near. I prefer that you may be a Christian because life may be ahead of you stretching out through the years. But this year you may die. I beseech you get ready. Do not put off accepting Christ until it is too late. This is the day of opportunity. Now God is calling. Today if ye will hear His voice harden not your heart. Tomorrow may never come for when this day closes tomorrow may be eternity. 'This year thou shalt die.'"

COTTON TOOK JUMP TOWARD WEEK'S END

Close Was at Net Gain of 40 to 42 Points—The Exports for the Week Were Large.

New Orleans, La., March 7.—Peace talk played an important part in the cotton market last week, sending prices up when the market appeared to be under the influence of the stand the European allies made toward imports by Germany and the almost prohibitive insurance rates. On Tuesday prices were 4 to 11 points under last week's close, but a quick recovery from this level was made, the high levels being made on the last session of the week. The close was at a net gain of 40 to 42 points.

Exports for the week were large, despite the restrictions on shipping, and amounted to 354,615 bales which compared with 687,000 bales for the entire month of March last year. The effect of these figures was intensified by reports of a large spot short interest in Texas.

Preparations for planting were watched with great interest.

This week the situation abroad is bound to play a prominent part in the cotton market. Toward the end of last week it was rumored that the allies were about to give up their determination to regard cotton as contraband of war. Any such official announcement, would, of course, be followed by a stronger market as it would point to an uninterrupted export movement. So far as can be seen now, however, high insurance rates are going to be a factor to be reckoned with.

The new crop is beginning to loom up as a strong influence because of the signs of a material cut in acreage. Any evidence that comes to light to confirm these signs will have a strengthening effect on the market, particularly on the fall months, although bears are pointing out that the fall months already are at a considerable premium over the summer months, whereas they usually stand at a discount.

TONE IS FIRMER IN STOCK MARKET

Less Fear of This Country's Becoming Involved on Account of Reprisals Affecting Our Commerce.

New York, March 7.—More confident sentiment was reflected in the firmer and quieter stock market last week. There was evidently less fear of this country becoming involved with belligerent governments on account of reprisals affecting our commerce. Official optimism at Washington over Germany's reply to this government and the chances of British concessions helped this feeling. On the other hand, the British plan to interdict German sea trade and the attempt to open the Dardanelles had the effect of increasing belief in rumors of peace prospects. Speedy disproval of some of these rumors established their purely conjectural nature.

Wheat's violent tumble was affected indifferently by fears of interrupted shipments through war measures and of release of Russian shipments and by rumors of cancellation of export orders on peace prospects. Foreign trade generally was decidedly affected by these influences, February's fourth week trade balance showing a marked decrease from preceding weeks, while foreign exchange rates stiffened. There was further sales of American securities from abroad; private banking credits to foreigners and offerings of new German war loan notes were reported at Chicago and other western points. Several small imports of gold were received and more of the precious metal is now in transit from Japan.

Favorable trade auguries were drawn from iron and steel news, showing increase in February production, and March 1 furnace capacity further expanded. The month's enlarged steel shipments, with lessened rate of new bookings, forecast a smaller increase in United States Steel's unfilled orders than last month. The rate of new booking for March also is in question. The price of refined copper rose again. A lull was reported in western freight tonnage and January earnings pointed to the economies in force.

Adjournment of congress was a favorable influence. Argument for western freight increase and Missouri's refusal to allow a 2 1-2-cent fare entered into calculations. Default of the Western Pacific railroad was without effect on the general bond market, which was broad and showed a strong undertone.

Condition of Treasury.

Washington, March 7.—The condition of the United States treasury at the close of business yesterday was:

Net balance in general fund, $44,914,363.

Total receipts, $1,987,164.

Total payments, $2,088,089.

The deficit this fiscal year is $80,963,685 against a deficit of $26,652,365 last year, exclusive of Panama canal and public debt transactions.

Trade Shows Improvement, Say Bradstreet and Dun

Soil Conditions for Spring Planting Are Excellent, Reports Bradstreet.

Bradstreet's report says:

By and large, trade is slightly better, though there are many ragged edges, especially when such sections as the east and south are considered; in centers distributing to cereal growing regions, house orders have increased as the result of buyers' visits; unemployment continues to decrease; many lines are spurred to activity by war orders; bank clearings comparisons are more favorable in that decreases are smaller; winter wheat crop reports are excellent; soil conditions for spring planting are of the best, such farmers as have been in a position to hold wheat for high prices display little interest in new loans, and collections are better in certain sections, more particularly the southwest. Withal, checkreins on widespread expansion are plentiful enough.

Trading Conservative.

Trade in many parts of the south is inert; recurring uncertainties born of the European war act as a deterrent; there are some signs that new foreign buying of war supplies has receded, and conservatism in general purchasing is noteworthy, a decided preference being shown for frequent shopping rather than large lot buying any one time, even though stocks are conceded to be low. Essential staples, seeds and farm implements receive most attention, and March winds, poor country roads, rains or snows in this or that part of the country have prevented spring trade at retail from developing. At the same time, anything in the nature of luxuries is very dull. Traffic on western roads during February increased, and these railroads are preparing to engage 25,000 men for track work when weather conditions are propitious. Lack of vessels, high insurance and freights, restrict the volume of outbound business. Money is easy. Domestic investment in some bonds is better at a time when foreign liquidation of certain securities is conspicuous, and further progress of the allied forces in the Dardanelles has given rise to talk of early peace, to renewed weakness in wheat and to buying of stocks by interests that at one time displayed concern over possible complications connected with the European situation, while the adjournment of congress on Thursday also played a part in the covering movement.

Many of Cotton Mills Are Running Full Time, Declares Dun.

Dun's report says:

Conditions in business are very much mixed. Total transactions are still below those of recent years. There is a large attendance of retail distributors in the textile markets and they buy often, but as a rule, in comparatively small lots for immediate needs, and keep their stocks low. Many of the cotton mills are running on full time. There is a satisfactory business in clothing. Silks are in fair demand. Some improvement is noted in the shoe industry, but conditions are still far from normal. The glass trade is in well maintained volume. Shipbuilding is very active. Large sales are reported of automobiles. Commodity prices generally are lower. Wheat has declined sharply as a result of the allies' progress in the Dardanelles, foreshadowing the release of Russian wheat to the world. The steel trade is gradually expanding and a hopeful feeling prevails. Developments, however, are exceedingly irregular, operations in some lines being nearly normal, while in others they are very much below capacity. Pig iron production in February exceeded that of January; more blast furnaces are in operation and the consumption of coke is larger. Conditions in anthracite coal are better, but the bituminous situation is unsatisfactory. The railroads, whose gross earnings now show a decline of 6 per cent from last year, have bought over 500,000 tons of rails this year.

Money Is Easy.

Money is easy, but credits are extended only on a conservative basis. Failures are still very numerous, though they were less in February, both in number and aggregate of liabilities, than in January. The market for securities is rendered inactive by the uncertainty resulting from the perplexing war situation, but is quite firm; no sign of intrinsic weakness appears, and there is considerable investing in bonds. The great balance in favor of the United States in international exchanges constitutes the most promising feature of the situation. Exports continue very heavy notwithstanding the risks of shipping; during the last week of February there was a trade balance for the United States of nearly $20,000,000, while for the last three months it amounts to $411,000,000. There is much solicitude as to the outcome of the war zone and blockade decrees, which infringe upon the rights of neutrals, and the effect of this is to check the progress of improvement in American trade, but a growing conviction prevails that the increasing intensity of the conflict must necessarily shorten its duration. Moreover, evidence accumulates of a transference of financial power and commercial opportunities from the warring nations across the Atlantic, and that the international exchanges will favor this country to such an extent that there will be a heavy balance in our favor, not merely in merchandise as usual, but in the entire aggregate of foreign transactions.

BANK CLEARINGS IN UNITED STATES FOR THE PAST WEEK

Bank clearings in the United States for the past week, as reported to Bradstreet's Journal, New York, aggregate $3,547,079,000, against $2,509,214,000 week before last and $3,603,720,000 in this week last year. Canadian clearings aggregate $131,308,000, as against $114,763,000 week before last and $158,740,000 in this week last year. INCREASED ACTIVITY SHOWN IN STEEL TRADE

Contracts Closed Called for Nearly 43,000 Tons of Fabricated Steel.

New York, March 7.—Increased activity in structural work marked the steel trade last week. Contracts closed called for nearly 43,000 tons of fabricated steel, including 13,000 tons for the New York city elevated railroad extension, 9,000 tons for the Columbia River Highway bridge and 9,500 tons for the Clark street viaduct at Cleveland, Ohio.

The railroads bought about 65,000 tons more rails, including 20,000 tons for the Northern Pacific, 20,000 tons for the Illinois Central—the latter to be rolled in Canada—6,000 tons for the Burlington, 10,000 tons more for the New York Central system, 2,500 tons additional for the Great Northern, 2,000 tons more for the Pennsylvania, 1,500 tons for the International Great Northern and 3,000 tons light sections for Russia.

Specifications against contracts were larger and as a result the United States Steel Corporation increased the output of ingots to nearly 69 per cent of total capacity. Orders booked by the subsidiary companies in February were larger than previously reported and in consequence it is indicated that unfilled orders increased about 20,000 tons last month.

The American Steel and Wire company advanced extras on galvanized wire products $2 per ton. Although bars, plates, shapes and bands were advanced $1 per ton to $1.15, base Pittsburg, March 1, prices on plates and shapes are not being maintained. The export trade continued satisfactory; some large and many small orders were placed.

Elect Kavanaugh's Successor Today

EDITED BY DICK JEMISON.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE ELECTS PRESIDENT

Names Successor to Late Judge Kavanaugh at the Meeting in Birmingham Today.

The directors of the Southern league will hold a meeting at the Hotel Tutwiler in Birmingham today to elect a successor to the late Judge William M. Kavanaugh, president.

This meeting promises to bring forth a lot of balloting, with any dope on the possible successful candidate being out of the question.

There are several candidates, both self-appointed and named by the newspapers, chambers of commerec and business men of their own city.

But those in position to know believe that a "dark horse," whose name has not been made public, will be elected when a deadlock occurs over the present list of candidates.

The Candidates.

Most prominent of all the candidates mentioned is Robert H. Baugh, president of the Birmingham Baseball association. He states that pressure of other business duties precludes his accepting, though if nominated and elected, it is believed that he can be persuaded to accept.

Charles Frank, whom many believe the controlling power of the destinies of the league, is another man, but Frank is said to have stated that he would not be a candidate, and that he will switch his influence in favor of Coburn Kavanaugh, a younger brother of the judge.

Captain C. T. Crawford, vice president of the league, has been mentioned prominently, but he has stated positively that he is not a candidate.

Clyde Shropshire, president of the Nashville club, and J. Marlin Speed, vice president of the Memphis club, are said to be warmly favored by the business men of their respective cities.

The outcome of the election will be watched with considerable interest throughout the entire south, and the directors realize that they have a mighty task on their shoulders.

DOTHAN WILL PROVE LIVE WIRE IN LEAGUE

The advent of Dothan, Ala., into the Georgia State league, vice Cordele, Ga., who surrendered her franchise by sale to the Alabama city, is going to prove a wise move.

President Dick Jemison went to Dothan Friday and personally consummated the deal, and was very much enthused over the way the hustling Alabama city took to the proposition.

Mr. Jemison says:

"I had heard something of Dothan's hustling spirit, but I did not realize it so approached the 'Atlanta spirit' as it does. From the way they took hold of the baseball proposition it is apparent that they do not do anything by halves.

"In one day a subscription committee raised over $1,800. In two days they had boosted it to $3,000, when they stopped, though at that time they had the assurance of that much more if necessary.

"On my visit there everyone talked baseball. The wartime talk don't go in Dothan. No one there seems to have any use for a pessimist. Everyone seems to be an optimist.

"Dothan is so wild about baseball that the men interested in the baseball proposition, and from the way they took to it, it looks like everyone in the city has taken some stock in the organization, are willing to bet that Dothan's paid attendance for the season surpasses that of any other city in the league.

THOMASVILLE IS FIRST TO NAME THEIR MANAGER

Thomasville is ready for the opening of the Georgia State league baseball season. Awakened at last, the Thomasville fans took the bull by the horns and went all the other cities a little better.

Thomasville is the first club in the league to name their manager for the coming season. R. J. Murch, who pastimed at third base for the Hornets last season, was elected manager by the new officers and directors Saturday night.

Thomasville was a bit doubtful the early part of last week, but when President Dick Jemison put the matter up to them and the directors of last year's team asked for immediate action they took the bull by the horns.

New officers and directors were elected, every one of whom has agreed to serve, a subscription fund was started and quite a nice fund subscribed to insure baseball for the season.

The confirmation of the above information was contained in a dispatch received early yesterday morning. It is as follows:

"Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: The Thomasville Baseball association was officially organized today. B. A. Daniels, president; J. G. Gardner, secretary; E. M. Smith, Jr., treasurer; R. J. Murch, manager. The outlook is good so far as Thomasville is concerned.

(Signed) "B. A. DANIELS, "President."

FEDERATION MEETS.

Amateur Controlling Body Gets Ready for Season.

The first call meeting of the Amateur Athletic federation, the governing body of amateur athletics in Atlanta, will be held at 119 Peachtree street Wednesday at 6:30 p. m.

At this meeting the plans for the coming baseball season will be discussed and every league president is urged to be on hand. Many important matters will be discussed.

STATE LEAGUE NAMES ITS UMPIRE STAFF

President Dick Jemison, of the Georgia State league, announced last night that his staff of umpires for the coming season had been completed.

S. H. LaRocque, the former Southern league ball player, has been engaged as chief of staff.

W. P. White, the Atlanta boy who coaches the Boys' High school nine, and who umpired in the Georgia-Alabama league last season, has been signed.

R. V. Hancock, of Atlanta, who has umpired all the important amateur and semi-pro games of this city, and who also worked in the Georgia-Alabama league last season, is the third man of the staff.

With this staff of umpires picked from fifty-two applicants, the Georgia State league can look for efficient indicator handling during the coming season.

A Cracker a Day for Fans

12. W. W. WALDRON.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Under this head, The Constitution will carry, daily, a short story introducing to Atlanta fandom the players who will receive tryouts with the Crackers this spring. Their record, history, etc., will be given in brief, concise form.

Willie Whitfield Waldron received a brief try-out with the Crackers last fall, coming to the local club from LaGrange. He made such a good impression that he was retained by the locals for the coming season.

Waldron reported with a badly bunged up hand and was in no position to show his true worth, though at times he played a high-class article of ball and gave every indication of developing into a star.

Waldron is another of the southern boys trying for places on the Crackers, being a resident and native of Birmingham, Ala. He is 21 years of age, is 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He has only been in professional baseball two seasons, playing with LaGrange and Atlanta.

Waldron is a right-hand thrower and batter. With LaGrange last season he hit .309. He fielded .883. Waldron will be given a thorough try-out by Manager Smith this spring, and his friends believe that he will at least give the regular man, whoever he may be, a hot battle for the place.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUN AT TECH SATURDAY

Event Promises to Surpass That of Last Year in Every Detail.

By Hal Reynolds.

On Saturday Tech will hold their annual cross-country run from Grant field out to the waterworks and return, a distance of a little over three miles.

The run will start at exactly the same time that the baseball game with Riverside will begin, so that the spectators who attend the ball game can witness both the start and the finish of the cross-country.

There appears to be a great deal of enthusiasm aroused over the run and interest is keen, both among the entries and among the various teams from each of the dormitories, the shacks, and from all of the entries that live in the city.

There are about fifty men entered in the event, and it looks as though this run will be the most successful one that the school has ever held. Most of the men entered are out for the track team and are in excellent shape for the fast pace that will undoubtedly be set.

Last spring's winner of the race, Rex Powell, and holder of the record for the course, is in school, and judging by the time that he has made over the distances in practice runs, he will stand a great chance of lowering his record of 18 minutes and 17 seconds.

Alvin Coules, who ran second last year, has practiced a long time for the event, and will, no doubt, run a strong race. He is looked upon as the probable winner by those interested in the run.

Merchants throughout the city have offered a great number of handsome prizes for the men who come in among the first twenty-five. In addition to these, there will be given away a great quantity of cakes to the men who finish well up in the list.

There will also be prizes given to the team that first finishes five men. Last year the team representing the shacks won the team prize.

G. M. C. Coaches Busy Whipping Big Squad Into Formidable Nine

Milledgeville, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—The Georgia Military college, it seems, is to have another winning team this year. Coach Maddox is by no means satisfied merely with taking one pennant last year and he, with Coach Huges, of the Boston Braves, is busy every day now at G. M. C. flats perfecting a machine that is certain to take care of all attacks and have some "pep" to sparc. Several of the star players of last season will be on the G. M. C. diamond again this year to figure in the games.

The team work is fast developing into perfection and these husky soldier boys have developed a hitting habit that they seem utterly unable to break themselves of. The positions have not been definitely decided upon, but the line-up will probably be about as follows: Catcher, Ellison or Harper; first base, Brogden; second base, Thrasher or Hancock; shortstop, Rhodes; left field, Sykes; center field, Whitehead; right field, L. Thrasher.

An especially trong pitching staff, composed of Camp, Gheesling, Lasseter, Bloodworth and Winn, will do the twirling during the coming season. Several practice games have been arranged, among which will be one game with the Braves on March 15 and two games with the Macon S. A. L. club on March 24 and 31. The regular season will then be on and games with Dahlonega, Richmond academy, Gordon, Donald Fraser, Riverside, Lanier, Americus and Cordele have been secured. The final schedule will be published later.

Yellow Jackets Open Their Baseball Season With Riverside March 13

The Tech Yellow Jackets will open their 1915 baseball season next Saturday at Grant Field with a game with the Riverside Military academy.

This is always a good test for the Jackets. Riverside always has a strong team and they always seem to be able to give the Jackets a terrific battle, no matter what kind of a team the latter may have.

In this game, Jim Senter and Froggie Morrison, the Jackets' new battery, will probably make their debut, they being ineligible to play last season.

Electric League Meets.

The Electric Baseball league will hold its second meeting on Tuesday at 5:45 o'clock at 119 Peachtree street.

The Western Electric, Southern Bell, Western Union and General Electric teams have already signified their intention of entering the league. Applications will be considered from any other teams desiring franchises.

M'CORMICK FACES STRENUOUS TASK

Must Weld Team From Bunch of New Men—Pitchers Report Today.

OFFICIAL ROSTER OF LOOKOUTS

Pitchers—Morgan, Harding, Ross, Lile, Currie, of last year's team; Hill, from the Waco, Texas league, team; Reynolds, from Manistee, in the Michigan State league; Melter, from Boise and Butte, in the Union association; Bernhard, battery coach, with Salt Lake last year.

Catchers — Kitchens, Houston, Texas league; Betts, Waco, Texas league; Auer, Salt Lake, Union association.

First Basemen—Harris, Bay City, Southern Michigan league; Shanley, of 1914 Lookouts.

Second Baseman and Captain—Starr, New Orleans last year.

Shortstop — Caveny, Salt Lake, with team awhile last fall.

Third Basemen—Graff, of 1914 Lookouts; Lusk, bought from Memphis.

Outfielders—Manager McCormick and Johnston, of 1914 team; Roberts and Hickman, from Winston-Salem team of North Carolina league.

Cattanooga, Tenn., March 7.—Lookout battery men are expected in the city Monday, the infielders and outfielders a week later. The local team is reporting a week late this year and the weather of the opening days of March shows that the management has saved several shmoleons expense money by the new order.

Melter, a big pitcher, turned up by Bill Bernhad from the Union association, was the first to report, and as all local players are signed and satisfied, the entire battery staff of eleven members is expected in the city Monday.

Although only four of the squad of twenty-one, exclusive of Coach Bernhard, are thoroughly experienced players who might be expected to be sure of their positions, the beginning of the training season finds nearly every "argument" settled except that of the young pitchers of whom five are to be selected out of eight. Behind the bat, the odds are somewhat in favor of Kitchens and Betts, two men with considerable experience in class B baseball.

At first, Harris, the Michigan .400 hitter and base-runner, will have to fall down considerably over the advance notices given him to lose out. Starr at second, Caveny at short and Graff at third are fixtures. Lusk and Shanley, the former Memphian, will argue over utility honors. In the field, Johnston and McCormick are in their usual positions, while two North Carolina recruits, Roberts and Hickman, will test conclusions for Jacobsen's vacant pasture in center. Hickman is the best touted of the two.

The locals will not be so strong at the bat as last year, but expect to make up for this deficiency by additional speed and headwork on the bases and a tighter defense on part of catchers, pitchers and infield. Starr is expected to "make" the infield. He has in Caveny one of the most sensational youngsters he ever played beside and the local club officials believe that he'll bring the youth out just as he did Dee Walsh, Milton Stock and Walter Barbare.

The first exhibition game will be played with the University of Chattanooga team about March 20, six days after the infielders and outfielders report.

WALTER HAGAN WINS EXHIBITION MATCH

Tampa, Fla., March 7.—Walter Hagan, national open golf champion, won an exhibition match at the Tampa Auto and Golf club links today with a score of 142, defeating J. M. Barnes, western champion, 144; Tom McNamara, of Philadelphia and Florida, open champion, 154, and Tom Kerrigan, of Boston, 156. Hagan lowered the record for the course from 144, and Barnes lowered the record for the 18 holes from 72 to 68. His golf in the afternoon round was the most sensational ever seen here.

Barnes won the three ball driving competition, his three drives totaling 665 yards.

Havana Reds on Tour.

Tampa, Fla., March 7.—The Havana Reds, champions of the Cuban National league, arrived here today to open a series of games with the Phillies at St. Petersburg Tuesday and the Cubs here preparatory to beginning a tour that will carry them to all parts of the United States.

CRACKERS START WORK WEDNESDAY

Manager "Bill" Smith Issues Orders to Those Who Have Reported to Begin Spring Work.

Manager Bill Smith, of the Crackers, announced yesterday that he had decided to start his spring training on Wednesday at Ponce de Leon park.

With good weather today and Tuesday, he will finish up the work on the field and have everything in tip-top shape for the bunch to start work.

This order applies to the seven men who are already on hand and any others who may report between now and Wednesday.

The seven men who have already reported are, First Basemen Eibel and Coffey, Outfielders Flynn and Moran, Pitchers Browning, Williams and Terry.

Starting today, the players will begin to arrive and by Wednesday there will probably be quite a few more on the ground ready to begin work.

Two weeks from today, the Crackers play their first exhibition games of the season, going to Macon to play the world's champions Boston Braves.

JOHNSON AND WILLARD TO FIGHT IN HAVANA

El Paso, Texas, March 7.—The Johnson-Willard fight for the heavyweight championship of the world will be staged at Havana, Cuba, during the first week of April, according to announcement here today by Willard's manager.

Willard, who is in Los Angeles, is expected to leave soon for Havana.

Willard to Start in Week.

Los Angeles, March 7.—Jess Willard, who arrived here yesterday, said today he expected to remain here about a week before starting for Havana to fight Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight championship.

PRACTICE GAMES

St. Louis 8, Houston 4.

Houston, Texas, March 7.—The St. Louis, American league team, which yesterday lost to the Houston, Texas league club, today won over the same team, 8 to 4.

Brown Cubs 9, Beaumont 6.

Beaumont, Texas, March 7.—A mixed team of St. Louis, American league, regulars and recruits defeated the Beaumont, Texas league team, today, 9 to 6.

Giant Cubs 6, Dallas 3.

Dallas, Texas, March 7.—The New York Nationals' second string players today defeated the Dallas, Texas league team, here, 6 to 3.

VALDOSTA WILL NAME MANAGER THIS WEEK

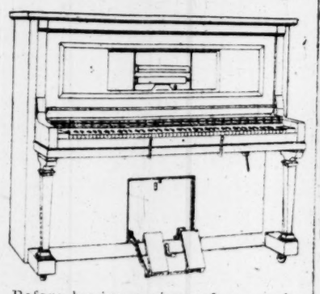

Valdosta, Ga., March 7.—(Special.)—It is expected that a manager for Valdosta's baseball team, in the Georgia State league, will be made early next week. Six or seven applicants are on the list, and the directors have been giving careful consideration to the qualifications of each.

Some of the applicants have had experience in higher leagues, and are splendidly equipped. Jordan is still under consideration. If he will play under the reduced salary limit he may be kept, otherwise it will be impossible to hold him. Many applications are coming in from players, and the club directors think there will be no trouble in getting all the men needed at the reduced salary limit. On account of the disbandment of some of the small leagues it looks like many players will be out of jobs this year and will be willing to work for smaller pay than in former seasons.

A number of men from last season's team are in reserve, and according to information received from the national commission they can be held at the reduced salary.

This ruling by the national commission means that players under contract with the Georgia State league last year and on the reserve list this year can be held at the 25 per cent reduction in salaries or be ruled from organized baseball.

MESSAGE OF INQUIRY SENT GREAT BRITAIN

U. S. Wants to Know How Embargo on German Commerce Will Be Enforced.

Washington, March 7.—Although Secretary Bryan declined to make any announcements, the general impression in official quarters tonight was that a message of inquiry had been sent to Great Britain and France asking for a clear explanation of their recent joint communication declaring they held themselves at liberty to stop all commerce between German and neutral countries.

Reports that the inquiry had been sent were current today and met with no denial. High officials, however, always have declined to discuss communications to the European belligerents in advance of their receipt abroad.

The latest message is understood to be of a broad character, designed to ascertain what the actual practice of the allies will be in the enforcement of their embargo; what disposition will be made of cargoes and ships detained; what procedure will be adopted in the case of shipments consigned to neutral countries and alleged to be destined to an enemy; what settlement will be made for cargoes contracted for before the declaration was made, and whether dye stuffs and other materials which England will permit her nationals to import cannot be obtained also by merchants of the United States.

"SOUTHERN BLIGHT" ATTACKED BY MADDEN

Boston, March 7.—Discrimination by congress or by state legislature against negroes was condemned at a mass meeting here today at which Moorfield Storey, of Boston, and Congressman Martin B. Madden, of Illinois, were speakers.

Congressman Madden declared the great trouble with the country was "southern blight," due largely, he said, "to the influence of southern members of congress, who are so powerful that they virtually control legislation, although representing only one-fourth of the population of the country."

The meeting was under the auspices of the Boston branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

28 MEN TO BE TRIED ON CORRUPTION CHARGE

Indianapolis, March 7.—Twenty-eight Terre Haute men will be put on trial here tomorrow in federal court on charges of conspiracy to corrupt the election of last November at Terre Haute. Numbered among the defendants are Donn M. Roberts, mayor of Terre Haute; Dennis Shea, sheriff of Vigo county; Judge Ell H. Redmond, of the circuit court, and other city and county officers.

This will be the first case in which the federal government has undertaken prosecution of alleged illicit election acts on the ground that it has jurisdiction because a United States senator and a member of the national house of representatives were elected.

AUBURN STAR SLAIN AT ATLANTIC BEACH

Wm. Christopher, Jr., Fullback on 1913 Southern Football Champions, Meets Death.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 7.—William H. Christopher, Jr., of this city, member of the champion 1913 football team of the Alabama Polytechnic institute, was shot and killed early today at Atlantic Beach, near here. John Flynn, a chauffeur, is in jail charged with having caused his death.

According to the police, Christopher and another man named Eberhardt were in a fisticuff and Flynn interfered. Flynn, they assert, admitted firing the shot, but says that he tried to shoot into the air to frighten the combatants and end the fight.

Grammar School League.

The Grammar School league will hold its first meeting of the season at 119 Peachtree street at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at 119 Peachtree street. All grammar school teams are urged to have a representative at the meeting.

Acquaintance

"We try to learn the likes and dislikes of every man who honors this store with his presence. We call about 75% of our customers by their first names. The other 25% either dislike familiarity or their acquaintance has not developed."

"The idea is this—"

"We aim towards the respect and confidence of those who trade with us and by this method can serve them best."

"This principle applies whether your present need be one of our $35 to-measure business suits or an emergency handkerchief."

"Speaking of handkerchiefs, have you seen the new line of colored border effects that are to be a rage this spring?"

69859.3 SQUARE FEET OF LAND

Within three-quarters of a mile of the Terminal Station, and within two blocks of two street car lines, we are offering the above amount of land for approximately five cents per square foot.

The property is bounded by three streets and an alley, having 722.8 feet of street frontage and 387.6 feet of alley frontage.

On this land is a good three-room house.

Some money will have to be spent in grading by the purchaser, in order to make the physical appearance more attractive for subdivision purposes, as at the present time this property is rather hilly and cut up with gullies.

This is an opportunity for someone with idle teams to get for Thirty-Five Hundred Dollars the most profitable job of work that they have had in a long time.
